BE CAREFUL!

This is an injunction of national importance at the present time. Apart, however, from the need of the observance of carefulness for the well-being of the nation—it is certain that the cultivation of this quality always brings substantial rewards in every department of life. Careful people avoid much inconvenience and many troubles which beset the path of the heedless. The importance of carefulness in regard to matters concerning the general health will be obvious to all. Careful people keep a watch upon their digestive powers, recognising that any weakening of these is frequently the cause of indisposition and illness. They hold themselves ready, and take, when necessary, such a remedy as Beecham's Pills. This is an excellent idea and a wise precaution. A periodical dose of

BEECHAM'S PILLS

is a great safeguard. Beecham's Pills regulate the bowels, give tone to the stomach, correct the action of the liver, restore the appetite, and improve the digestion generally. They have proved of great value to many thousands of people. Beecham's Pills have long years of great success behind them; the alleviation of many illnesses to their credit; in fact, a better family medicine is not to be found. They are compounded with great care from vegetable sources remarkable for their curative qualities, and as a digestive, tonic and aperient medicine you will find they

DUBLIN COMMISSION.

MR. JUSTICE DODD AND THE RISING.

THE POLICE AND THE PEACE.

The Commission for the City and County of Dublin was opened yesterday in the Courthouse, Green street, before Mr. Justice Dodd. Mr. H. C. Gaisford St. Lawrence, County High Sheriff, and Mr. William Delany, City High Sheriff, were in attendance.

THE GRAND JURIES.

The following were sworn on the County Grand Jury:—Messrs. Mark Taylor (foreman), Henry Baker, Andrew Egan, Wm. A. Fagan, Archibald Gilchriest, Christopher Jolly, Chas. W. Maconchy, Wm. V. O'Brien, Patrick Rath, Alfred Sexton, Thomas Archer, Richard Ball, Stephen Fennelly, Christopher T. Jolly, Thomas D. Large, Robert B. Barclay, Thomas Dawson, James Ennis, Wm. Ferguson, Francis Gill, John Walters, Walter Sexton, and Robert Taylor.

The City Grand Jury was as follows:—Messrs. Thomas Cunniam (foreman), Christopher Downes, George Fry, Thomas Hempenstall, Martin Kennedy, James M'Cormack, Wm. Phelan, Thomas H. Richardson, George Temple, J. H. Weir, John Adam, Edward Becker, H. B. Cunningham, Oliver Fry, John Groom, Thomas P. Leavy, R. M'Coy, Thomas J. Nuzum, James O'Brien, Thomas Pike, Albert Roberts, Wm. Stokes, and Joseph Curran.

THE RECENT RISING.

Mr. Justice Dodd, in his address to the County Grand Jury, said that six bills would be presented to them for consideration, and these were conversant with five cases. While he was shy of statistics, or of the lessons to be learned from them, it was usual for the judge at the Commission to refer to the returns from the police as to the crime in the area under their surveillance, and to see if the cases brought forward represented the actual state of the county. Since the Commission there two months ago the entire cases specially reported by the police were two in all. Last year in the same period there were six, so that there was a decrease of four—the only cases being destroying railways and malicious damage. That would seem to be absolutely satisfactory as regarded the portion of the county under the cognisance of the Royal Irish Constabulary; but then their eyes were witnesses of other things, and their ears also gave them evidence that a great many things had happened since Mr. Justice Kenny sat there last. Even so, it was his duty to inquire, and he was permitted by the County Inspector to say as regarded the area, the intensity of action, and the result in the way of loss of property or loss of life, that the disaffection in the part of the county with which he was dealing was extremely restricted, and, therefore, he was entitled to tell them that as a little ray of hope and a little ray of sunshine in a rather gloomy time. He had reason to think that the county police would be able in a short time—if they had not already succeeded—to have the unruly elements of the county under control, so that the rest of the population could live in peace and quietness, and as the Grand Jury had done in the past, to receive congratulations from the judge sitting there. For the present he could not give them congratulations, but he had not much either to give them in the way of condolence.

THE CITY TROUBLES.

Addressing the City Grand Jury, his lordship said that 21 bills would be sent up to them, and these were conversant with 18 cases which would give them no trouble. Following the precedent of former times, it would be his duty to give them returns he had got from the police—returns connected with ordinary crime with which they and he were familiar. There were in 1915 1,456 culprits reported in the two months between the two Commissions. In this year for the corresponding period there were 1,275. That is, in the city alone, and if they added that part of the county which belonged to the city under the D.M.P., there were 261 cases reported in 1915, as against 142 in 1916. That was on the whole a pretty good tot after all, taking everything into consideration. But that did not end it. A great many things had occurred in their city since his predecessor sat there, but he had nothing to do with what had in fact happened. The cases connected with that had been withdrawn from the consideration of the Grand Jury and from his jurisdiction. In fact, he had no information to give them on the subject that they had not been witnesses of with their own eyes or had gathered from the Press. His duty was to see, if he could, that the peace of the city was preserved, and to inquire from the police whether they were astute and vigilant in preventing crime, and to ascertain whether they were prompt in the prosecution of crime, because the law should be made a teror to evil-doers, as they could not yet lay the flattering unction to their souls that there was no need of vigilance. There was a considerable need of vigilance, and he was glad to find that such vigilance was being maintained by the Dublin Metropolitan Police, in whom they had all the greatest confidence. They were doing their duty, as they had always done it, with keenness and activity; and he hoped they would continue to do so, in order that safety and peace would be insured in the future.

ALLEGED DEFAMATORY LIBEL.

In the case against Thomas Dickson, who had been returned for trial on the charge of publishing a defamatory libel, and who it was stated, had since lost his life in Portobello Barracks,

Mr. Leonard, who appeared for Mr. Isaacs, T.C., who was the complainant in the matter, applied to have the recognisances of his client released, as it was not intended to proceed with the indictment.

Mr. Justice Dodd made the order sought.

POST OFFICE PROSECUTION.

Mr. Bate, solicitor to the General Post Office, applied, in the case preferred by the Postmaster-General against Thomas Kelly for larceny, to have the charge withdrawn. He pointed out that Kelly had been indicted on three previous occasions, but the jury failed to find a verdict.

Mr. Justice Dodd made an order discharging the accused.

ECHO OF THE RISING.

Alice Woods and Lizzie Barnes, whose address was given as Sarah place, pleaded not guilty to a charge of breaking into the house, 14 Park place, Islandbridge, Dublin, between April 24th and May 8th, and stealing therefrom a quantity of silver spoons, knives, forks, and other household goods. The stolen property, estimated to be value for £17, belonged to Mrs. Annie Fahy, whose husband was arrested in connection with the rebellion. She left her house on April 24th and did not return until May 8th when she discovered her loss, and that in her absence the premises were searched by the military, while the police, on an investigation on May 6th, found that every room, drawer, and press in the place had been ransacked. However, neither the front nor the back door was opened, but it seemed as if an entry had been effected through a back window, the shutters of which had been forced. During the absence of the owner the prisoners were seen round the house, and owing to their movements they were prosecuted on the charge of having carried off the goods.

Mr. Justice Dodd said that to suggest that it was the soldiers who stole the goods showed that an impression had got abroad that the people had lost all their common-sense. Indeed, he would say that some of the flagrant things that happened since the last Commission showed that many Irish people had lost that useful commodity. The rebellion, it was said, was the product of imagination. He did not agree with that; he believed it was due to poetry. At the same time, this woman, though her husband had been arrested and sentenced, he understood, was just as much entitled to the protection of the law as anyone else in the community.

Mr. Lardner, M.P. (instructed by Mr. Lidwell), appeared for the prisoners, who were found guilty of "simple larceny," and sentence was deferred until August. In the meantime, his lordship said they should pay a fine of £5 each. In case of failure to pay the fine, the accused would have to go to prison.

The Commission was adjourned until 11 o'clock this morning.

DUBLIN CASTLE RED CROSS HOSPITAL.

A meeting of the Finance and General Purposes Committee was held at Dublin Castle Red Cross Hospital, when Sir John P. Lynch, Vice-Chairman, presided, and there were present:—Mrs. Owen Lewis, Miss Mulvany, LL.D.; Sir William Fry, D.L.; Sir William Thompson, M.D.; G. Jameson Johnston, Esq., F.R.C.S.; and Sir Joseph McGrath. The Resident Medical Superintendent (Dr. Carew) and the Secretary were in attendance. An apology was received from Wm. M. Murphy, Esq., J.P., Chairman of the Finance and General Purposes Committee.

The report showed that since the last meeting of the Committee 23 patients had been discharged, leaving at present 113 under treatment in the Hospital. The total number who have been dealt with in Hospital since its inception is 1,595.

The Resident Medical Superintendent reported to the Committee the exceptionally valuable services rendered by Mr. Steele, one of the resident students, during the past year. A special note was entered on the memo. of his services.

Since the last meeting Mr. and Mrs. G. Sillar, Dalkey, kindly sent £4 in support of their bed in the Hospital; Mr. E. H. Holmes, C.I., R.I.C., contributed £2; Anonymous, 5/-; Mr. and Mrs. D. A Chart contributed £1, while Miss I. J. Grandy, Templeogue, sent a similar sum for the upkeep of the "Eric McMullen Bed"; Miss Cartley, Dalkey, sent £1.

SPORTING PARAGRAPHS.

All entries for Down Royal (Maze) races and for one race at Miltown-Malbay meeting close to-morrow with Mr. Brindley.

The late Mr. L. McCreery, of San Francisco, who was so well known in racing, hunting, and polo circles in Ireland and England, died intestate, leaving unsettled property of the value of £15,965.

Zefus should not have appeared in last week's "Calendar" amongst those drawn from the Baldoyle Derby, to be run next Tuesday. Mr. Parkinson's colt remains in the race, which, by the way, promises to furnish a very interesting contest.

At a recent meeting of the Council the following were elected to membership of the Hunters' Improvement and National Light Horse Breeding Society:— Messrs. M. R. Aird, J. Birkmyre, D. Crossman, W. H. Gardiner, and J. Wright. It was stated that the Show Committee were unanimously of opinion that the Society should revert to a three-day show next year.

At the recent London Pug Club Show Mrs. Hampden Shaw's dogs won both fawn dog and bitch championships, eight firsts, and first brace and team, two 25-guinea challenge cups for the best fawn dog and bitch in the show, and 10-guinea challenge cup, besides a number of specials. Champion Turret Abraham won the special for the best pug in the show, dog or bitch, fawn or black, this being his third successive win.

The feature of the lawn tennis championships of Spain, held recently at Madrid, was (says the "Field") the success of Conde de Gomar, who is only nineteen years of age. He won the Singles after a very close match in the second round against M. Alonso, the holder, and a hard, though not critical, final against J. Alonso (8-6, 7-5, 6-3). Conde de Gomar retained the championship of Madrid (for which virtually the same field competed) with the loss of only one set. He also won the Doubles with M. Alonso and the Mixed Doubles with Carmen Portago.

The War on Land.

No new facts in connection with last Wednesday's naval engagement came to light yesterday. The communiqué from the Admiralty which we printed yesterday implied a promise that Sir John Jellicoe's despatch—together, presumably, with that of Sir David Beatty—will be made public as soon as the Admiralty receives it from the Commander-in-Chief. Until that authentic record of the action is published we shall do well to suspend judgment upon the unofficial and extremely contradictory accounts from various quarters which are now in circulation. In the meantime it is not fantastic to assume some relation between the naval action and the opening last Friday of a heavy German attack upon the Ypres salient. The enemy's proceedings are governed increasingly by political rather than by purely strategic considerations. There is good reason to suppose that the "enterprise" on which the High Sea Fleet was engaged when it was brought to action by the Grand Fleet last Wednesday was inspired by the necessity of distracting German public opinion from the grinding pressure of our blockade, and the same necessity explains the German Admiralty's feverish anxiety to claim a resounding victory. Equally the Germans would count with some confidence upon a certain disturbance of British public opinion before the facts of the naval engagement were fully known; and their consistently false conception of the psychology of other nations would suggest to them that this disturbance would be aggravated by an almost simultaneous blow on land. As a matter of fact, the naval action has monopolised public attention to such an extent that the German attack on the British front at Ypres has been almost completely ignored. The attack, opened on Friday evening, was delivered on the front from Hooge to the Ypres-Menin railway, where the salient in the British line is most pronounced. It produced fiercer fighting than any which has occurred on the British front since last autumn. Taken in conjunction with a new effort of unprecedented violence before Verdun, it suggests that the Germans' operations on the western front are reaching a culminating phase which the enemy intend to be decisive.

After an intense bombardment, the Germans penetrated our first-line trenches in places on a front of about three thousand yards. Following up this initial advantage, they pushed their attacks during Friday night, and succeeded in driving in our defence to a depth of seven hundred yards in the direction of Zillebeke. This part of the line was held by Canadian troops, who are specially mentioned in the report from General Headquarters for "the utmost gallantry in counter-attacking successfully after a heavy and continued bombardment." Their counter-attack, delivered on Saturday morning, succeeded in driving the Germans gradually from much of the ground which they had gained, and since that time the situation has not altered materially. The enemy explain their small capture of prisoners on the ground that "the defenders suffered particularly heavy and sanguinary losses, and, besides, some of the troops fled from their positions." It is somewhat more probable that the number of prisoners is small because we have adopted the plan of the French, and hold our first-line trenches with weak forces. The British report describes the enemy's losses as "severe." An artillery preparation which does little damage in half-empty trenches; an advance, at first weakly resisted, and then pushed at high cost; and finally a series of counter-attacks organised before the assailants have had time to organise the ground won—this normal course of operations exacts a toll from the attacking party out of all proportion to any momentary gain of ground which it may secure. It remains to be seen whether the effort before Ypres will be pressed to the extreme length of the effort before Verdun. The French have discovered an Order of the Day, dated May 27th, in which the Chief of the German General Staff directs his officers "to push the attacks to the utmost limit, and only to stop upon formal orders from the Higher Command, no matter what the losses suffered may be." That order has since been faithfully obeyed, with the result that the slaughter before Verdun has reached a point unequalled in all the weeks of slaughter which have preceded it. The French defence so far holds fast, and French military opinion is satisfied that, unless the unforeseen occurs, Germany will have spent her reserve force available for Verdun within a fortnight.

It is difficult to see in what way this calculation—and in such calculations the French have hitherto been found to be singularly exact—can be vitiated. Upon the Italian front, where the Austrians are putting forth an effort comparable with the German effort before Verdun, a state of equilibrium appears to have been reached. Yesterday's communiqué from Rome reports a slight Austrian gain at one point, but otherwise the Italians have prevented the enemy from making any headway during the past five days. The Austrian advance has not been checked a moment too soon. The situation on the Italian front was becoming critical, and will become critical again unless the present check can be confirmed. The Austrians have by this time emerged from the greater part of the tangled mountain country of the Trentino. They stand upon the edge of the slopes overlooking the plain of Venetia. Behind the last ridges of the Italian defence only twenty miles of absolutely open country intervene before the first of the two main lines of lateral railway communication which supply the Isonzo front to the east is reached. At this critical point, however, another factor has made its appearance. For their effort on the Italian front the Austrians have drawn heavily upon their reserves on the Russian front. Of this weakness the Russians have been quick to take advantage. They are secure for the present against any German movement on the northern part of their front, for in the north the ground is not yet fit for major operations. In the south, however, it hardens some time earlier than in the north; and in the south, on the whole front between the Pripet marshes and the Rumanian frontier, the Russians have now opened a successful offensive. They have taken thirteen thousand prisoners, together with guns and machine guns, and the advance proceeds. Our eastern Allies are turning to good account the experience of the past year. The infantry proposes to advance by gradual stages as the artillery prepares the way. The development of the Russian offensive in the east will be watched by the enemy, engaged up to the hilt in west and south, with extreme anxiety.

Public School Reform.

A letter signed by Lord Desborough, Admiral Sir John Jellicoe, and others well known in the fields of thought and action has been sent to the parents of boys at Eton—which, by the way, is now looking for a new headmaster. The letter appeals for a larger and more systematic encouragement of science and modern languages in our public schools. It contains, we regret to say, a disparagement, not uncommon in such appeals, of the traditional classical training, which is described as "for the average boy a deplorable waste of most valuable time." With a fortunate inconsistency, however, the letter goes on to confess that the public school boy is now "doing splendidly both as a man and a soldier in the great ordeal through which we are passing." Surely the training which has produced these results on the fields of Flanders was worth all the time and trouble that were devoted to it? With the letter's main contention, however, we are in full agreement. The teaching of science and of modern languages in the average public school is unsatisfactory; and it could be improved vastly without any injustice to the study of the ancient languages. As this letter says, "the wonderful efficiency of the Germans, both in science and languages, points to the fact that their schools and universities answer these two vital requirements better than do ours." In Great Britain there is a Conference of Headmasters which exercises a valuable, though unofficial, influence in the control of higher education. This Conference will be approached on the subject of the proposed reforms, and, if we may judge from the liberal character of its public discussions, it will give the advocates of reform a patient and sympathetic hearing. The war is going to change the British outlook on nearly every aspect of human activity. It has proved that war has become largely a matter of scientific processes, and that a successful soldier must be, to some extent, a man of science. It has opened our eyes to the fact that the development of British commerce and industry after we have won the present fight will be mainly a question of organisation and intellectual equipment. When our soldiers and sailors have won an honourable peace it is our men of commerce, our captains of industry, our engineers, and our chemists who must garner the fruits of peace. It must become possible for the average boy to receive a decent training in science at his public school, and he will be but poorly fitted for the battle of life if he cannot speak fluently at least one modern language in addition to his own. Everybody "learns" French, but ninety-nine per cent. of the learners never acquire any real knowledge of it as a spoken language. German is under a cloud just now, but no man of affairs in the near future will be able to neglect the language of our most formidable competitor in trade. A knowledge of Russian five years hence will be a key to fame and fortune in a vast Empire which is only beginning to develop its resources. Spanish, too, will be a most important language of commerce after the war. Our public schools must recognise these facts. There is much need to-day, and a great opportunity, for a stout-hearted pioneer of public school reform in Ireland.

Compensation.

Yesterday morning a deputation, representative chiefly of the Dublin Corporation, met the Home Secretary, who has now returned to London. Afterwards, at the meeting of the Corporation, the Lord Mayor sketched the general lines of the draft Bill which has been submitted to the Government. A deputation from the Losses Association was also received by Mr. Samuel with regard to compensation. Later in the day the constitution of the Committee which is to assess the amounts to be paid in compensation on an insurance basis was announced. The selection of Sir William Goulding as the representative of local interests should command approval. Himself one of the leading business men in Ireland, he is respected by the whole business community. The other two members of the Committee—one a prominent insurance man, and the other a member of a well-known firm of fire assessors—are, no doubt, well equipped to deal with the technical business of the arbitration. We have still to learn whether the terms of reference to the Committee—in plain words, the basis of compensation—are now defined to better satisfaction than before Mr. Samuel's arrival. A new and important aspect of the destruction done in Dublin in Easter week was revealed by the Lord Mayor yesterday. It is estimated that the valuation of the ruined property was about £33,000, and that the loss to the revenue of the Corporation this year through the non-payment of rates on that amount will be £16,000. The Lord Mayor rightly urged the Corporation to do its best to exercise such economy as will enable it to balance its expenditure for the year with the reduced revenue. The business of the city will suffer for some time to come from the effects of the rebellion and the incidental destruction, and it will be folly to carry a large deficit into next year's municipal account. A few minutes after this warning was given by the Lord Mayor the Council, by a majority, voted a war bonus to certain of its staff without having before it any estimate of the cost of its resolution. This action, and the general aspect of the financial situation in which the Corporation now finds itself, emphasise the need for a better representation in the Council of the business community of the city. In the near future the Council will have to fill several vacancies by co-option. We suggest that the reasons for the choice of a business men's nominee for at least one place on the Council are even stronger than they were some months ago, when a similar suggestion was made and rejected.

THE IRISH QUESTION.

TO-DAY'S MEETING IN BELFAST.

VIEWS OF ULSTER UNIONISTS.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

BELFAST, MONDAY.

At the meeting of the Ulster Unionist Council in Belfast to-morrow it is expected that Sir Edward Carson will make an important pronouncement. The meeting is the subject of much discussion amongst Ulster Unionists to-night. It is now generally believed that as a result of recent conversations with Mr. Lloyd George the Nationalist leaders are willing to agree to the exclusion of six of the nine Ulster counties—namely, the Counties of Antrim, Down, Derry, Tyrone, Armagh, and Fermanagh. So far as I can find from inquiries amongst the rank and file of Unionists in Ulster there is no disposition to accept anything short of the exclusion of the whole province, and, unless Sir Edward Carson and the other Ulster leaders can put before the meeting grave reasons on Imperial grounds, necessitating the immediate settlement of the Home Rule question, there will not be any unanimous decision to accept the exclusion of only the six north-eastern counties. This, shortly, is the general tone of opinion amongst Unionists in Belfast.

I have also heard some further views expressed. In the first place, there are many who believe it very undesirable to attempt any settlement of the question until after the war, in view of the pledge to the Ulster Division that Ulster's position would not be altered, and that the political truce would be maintained until the termination of hostilities. A large section believe that any settlement now would be regarded by the Sinn Feiners as their reward for treason and rebellion, and an encouragement to fresh demands. This section is absolutely opposed to Home Rule under present conditions. On the other hand, there are not a few Unionists who believe that in restricting the Ulster area to six counties, provided there is a clean cut of all connection with an Irish Parliament, lies the best solution for the majority of the Ulster Unionists, as it would probably prevent this excluded Ulster from ever coming under the control of an Irish Parliament.

LONDON CORRESPONDENCE.

153 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
MONDAY NIGHT.

The first official statement issued by the Admiralty on Friday—or "the lachrymatory shell from Whitehall," as someone has called it—was so uncertain that it deprived England of a real flag day. Germany was ordered to rejoice and hang out its flags, but it is stated to-day that the rejoicings have been suspended. Here in England we lack official orders to rejoice, but, if the fact that we had been victorious had not been obscured by official "low visibility," flags would have flown from one end of the country to the other. This morning flags were flying here and there in a somewhat tentative manner. A hint from the Government that the occasion is well worth a compliment to our brave sailors should not be lacking.

In the gloom produced by the first reports of the battle there were cries from a section of the Press for the return of Lord Fisher to the Admiralty. Now the boot is on the other leg, and it is the German Jingoes who, according to a Dutch telegram, are agitating for the recall of Admiral Tirpitz to his former position of head of the Navy.

Much adverse comment continues to be levelled against the Admiralty for having allowed Mr. Churchill's memorandum on the results of the battle to be published by the Press Bureau. The facts, I suspect, are that Mr. Churchill asked to see the despatches, and, having regard to his former position as First Lord, was allowed to do so; he then expressed the desire to make public his impressions, and again was given permission, subject to the proviso that his "copy" should be passed by the Press Bureau, and that is how it acquired the semi-official character which has aroused so much criticism. But though the procedure is a little unusual, no harm has been done to anyone, unless it is to Mr. Churchill himself, who, if he desires later to impugn the action of the naval authorities, may regret that he rushed so hastily into print.

The part played by the Zeppelins in the naval battle is not yet clear, but it seems certain that they were active. Stories are told of bomb-dropping on our ships and on men in the sea. The fact that the German report gives them a meed of praise means little, for it has been the custom of the Germans to laud the airships on every possible occasion, in order, possibly, that people may think them far more valuable and important than they really are. Some of the London newspapers are attacking the Admiralty because we have no Zeppelins, but, seeing that there is no reference to aerial craft at all, this is somewhat unjust. Our naval air service was hard at work through the whole battle. It has its allotted duty to perform on such an occasion, and does it. We may yet be told something of how it was done.

According to a Rome telegram, the German Admiralty has now received information that the losses of the German Fleet were much heavier than was at first supposed. It is probable—indeed certain—that this is so, but no admission of the fact appears in the semi-official account of the battle which has been issued in Berlin and appears in the papers to-day. The insistence in the account upon the great numerical superiority of the British forces is probably intended, however, to prepare the German public for the announcement of further losses later on. Even the most innocent German must find it a little difficult to understand why, if the German Fleet scored such an overwhelming victory, it should, nevertheless, have found it necessary to run for home.

A rough calculation of the respective losses on the basis of the Admiralty's estimate shows that we lost 14 vessels, aggregating 114,000 tons, and the Germans 18 vessels, aggregating 142,000 tons.

The Germans used gas shells in the battle, adding another horror to a sea battle. They have also been using much gas on the western front again. Fortunately our men now think little of this, and are provided with most effective gas helmets to protect them from the danger. It is fortunate that the Germans devised nothing new in the way of such horrors for their ships. Gas clouds, however, could scarcely be used in a naval battle with effect. With the ships miles apart and constantly moving, no gas cloud could be worked with safety to the enemy. Gas shells, however, are a different story.

One of the most significant and satisfactory statements in last night's communiqué from the Admiralty was that on the evening of June 2 Sir John Jellicoe's fleet was again ready to put to sea. This gives point to the suggestion of the French Admiral Degouy, that now is the time, while the German Navy is paralysed, for the British Fleet to seize its opportunity and attack the German naval bases. We may be sure that our naval authorities are quite alive to the situation, and that there is every prospect of "a certain liveliness in the North Sea" for some time to come.

During the last few days interest in the war has mostly centred around the naval battle in the North Sea. Ypres and Verdun were almost forgotten while the live story of the biggest naval battle in history was being told. The fighting at Ypres has been very severe of late, and the fighting around Verdun fiercer than ever. Ypres is "an incident." Verdun is what Mr. Winston Churchill would call "a tendency." By that I mean that, while the German assault on the Canadian trenches will have no effect on the ultimate result of the war, the fighting at Verdun will. The Germans seemingly have committed themselves on the Meuse to a definite and decisive blow at France. They will keep hammering away at Verdun in the hope of capturing the town or else killing so many Frenchmen and exhausting so much French artillery and munitions that there can be no offensive in the west, with the consequence that the Germans will have sufficient numbers to enable them to deal with the Russians on the east. It seems a hopeless task. It is difficult to say, of course, what the resources of Germany are, but by this time, in munitions at any rate, the Allies in the west should be as well supplied as the Germans. If we are—in particular, if France has sufficient guns and shells—Germany will not succeed.

In the meantime, what about Russia? Frankly, it is to be hoped that our Russian Allies will not assume the offensive until they are absolutely ready. Now that the White Sea is open, every day increases Russia's strength. If the French can hold Verdun, say for a month, Russia will be immensely stronger. It may be that the French can hold Verdun as long as they like. In that event it would be a pity for the Allies to take the offensive too soon. The spring is nearly over. Before this time last year the German offensive in the east had commenced. If it is delayed much longer it is doomed to utter failure. The Allies, however, are not in the same hurry. The British Navy has still got the strangle hold, and every day goes to show that the internal condition of Germany grows worse.

A week ago I noted, as one of the symptoms that might possibly herald the approach of peace, the depression on the Berlin Bourse. To-day confirmation of this depression comes from an unexpected, but authoritative, quarter. The Buenos Ayres Correspondent of The Times states that, acting on the advice of the Argentine Minister in Germany, the Argentine Government has warned the National Bank of the financial state of Germany, and that the Bank thereupon advised its principal German clients of restriction of the existing facilities.

Prince George of Teck is the latest member of the Royal Family to enter the Army. He has been given a commission in the Reserve Regiment of the Life Guards, a unit of the crops in which his father, the Duke of Teck, commenced his military career twenty-eight years ago. Prince George is twenty, being a few months older than Prince Albert, his cousin. The members of the Royal Family now serving number eleven, while Prince Maurice died of wounds early in the war.

HUNGARY IN WAR TIME.

AN IRISHWOMAN'S EXPERIENCES.

FOOD PRICES.

An Irish lady, who has just returned to Dublin from Budapest, where she had been holding a position as nurse since the early part of 1913, has sent us an account of her experiences in the Hungarian capital since the outbreak of war.

She speaks in the highest terms of the conduct of the Hungarian people towards British subjects all through; in fact, she states, all British subjects were treated with the utmost kindness and consideration, and she could find no cause whatever for complaint. She says:—"We had the greatest freedom; we were able to move about freely, to attend amusements of all kinds, and even were admitted to hospitals where wounded soldiers were being treated. No unfriendliness was ever exhibited towards us, and our passage away from Budapest was facilitated, and everything done to make our journey as pleasant as the circumstances would allow. Only on one occasion was any trouble given us, and this happened at Salsburg, where the Germans were holding the railway from that point to Feldkirsch. At Salsburg German officers were examining our passports, and they refused to allow those holding British passports to proceed until a Hungarian officer of high rank was requisitioned. He examined the passports and underlined in red ink the Order—'This British subject is to be allowed to proceed without any interference.'"

"Did this good feeling exist from the outbreak of hostilities?" the lady was asked. "Yes," she said, "we were never molested, or any insult offered us."

"What conditions generally prevailed in Hungary, prior to the actual outbreak?"

"Well," she answered, "I think war was arranged for, or, at least, anticipated, before the incident that was made the excuse for the outbreak occurred. On a couple of occasions I noticed balloons up in the air, and when I asked the reason I was told, 'Oh, that is in case of war, as when war breaks out, we will be able to make observations, and send messages and signals, if anything is to be learned from observations.' I thought that very strange, as no word of war was previously heard. That was in June, 1913, over twelve months before war broke out. In or about that time the newspapers in Budapest had references to the Larkin disturbances in Ireland, and the people gleefully referred to its spread amongst the workers throughout England, too. They regarded the latter hopefully. Then came the incident of the murder of the Austrian Crown Prince at Sarajevo. This set everything in uproar. War was said to be inevitable—a European war—and people who spoke of its confinement between Austria and Serbia were laughed at. The majority welcomed a European war; hailed it with delight; mobilisation started immediately. The day after the declaration of war against Serbia, everything in the way of trade was stopped, and that state of things remained for a whole fortnight, and supplies of everything were considerably curtailed. Troops poured out of every town and village of Hungary, and the war cry was 'Ajlyan a harboru' (Long live the war). This cry was kept up for months, until the hospitals were full, and people began to lose their relatives on the battlefields. The losses were great. About the summer of 1915 the enthusiasm for the war began to wane, and as troops were going away the war greeting to them from friends was 'Ajlyan' (Long live). In April last, when I was leaving Hungary, spirits had undergone a further change, while the despondent cry was: 'How long, oh Lord, how long?'"

"We heard very little," she continued, "in the way of news as to the progress of the Powers, but what was published was always a glowing account of German and Austrian victories. Every incident was magnified into a great victory for Germany and Austria. We heard, of course, that England was bombarded and terribly damaged by Zeppelins; that the German Fleet had had great victories on the seas, but, by way of consoling me, I was told that 'the Germans would not interfere with Ireland, because they didn't like to frighten the Irish people. The Germans always had great sympathy with the Irish people.'

"There was great talk, too, especially among Germans, of the possibility of civil war in Ireland. This seemed to give them considerable consolation, as such a thing happening would help the Germans very much in their efforts against France and England. I was in Zurich when the rebellion occurred in Ireland, and we were told the most fantastic tales about it, and so much were we impressed with these stories that we naturally believed Ireland was another Belgium."

"How are supplies of foodstuffs in Hungary?" the lady was asked. "Well," she said, "from the outbreak of war we had to live under the strictest economic rules. Prices were prohibitive for everyone, and supplies of everything were very low. Everything was commandeered for the Army, and the people's share was very limited. The poorer people suffered badly. To give an idea of prices—

"Tea, which was always a dear commodity, sold at 20 crowns per kilo = 16s. 8d. per 2[illegible]

"Sugar was never cheaper than 6d. per [illegible]. It is still going up in price.

"Vegetables—Cabbage sold in April at [illegible] per small head; potatoes, 2s. 8d. per stone. Bread, which is a black colour, and the very worst, costs 8d. per 1½lbs.; eggs, 7d. for three; butter, 3s. lb., if not more; chickens, 6s. 8d.; meat 13s. 4d. per kilo = 2lbs.; boots of the poorest quality, 33s. 4d. a pair—they range from 40 crowns to 100 crowns, or [illegible]

"Dresses of the commonest kind cost from 250 to 300 crowns, or, roughly, about £12.

"This was due to the stoppage of imports, except from neutral countries like Rumania and Switzerland, but even these were precluded from sending in goods from America or Great Britain, such as Quaker oats, biscuits and jams, boots, clothes, etc."

"Naturally," she concluded, "I am glad to get home again, to see England, not as I was led to believe it was—a total wreck, and Dublin only slightly damaged. I should say, too, that the impression now spreading through Austria and Germany is that, while they have almost exhausted their last and best efforts, Great Britain and France are only beginning to make themselves felt."

THE PRIME MINISTER.

Mr. Asquith returned to 10 Downing street early yesterday afternoon. Later in the day he was visited by the Marquis of Crewe and General Sir William Robertson, Chief of the Imperial General Staff. Lord Stamfordham, Private Secretary to the King, was among yesterday afternoon's visitors to 10 Downing street.

LETTERS AND TELEGRAMS FOR INDIA.

The Press Bureau last night issued the following:—

The Military Secretary, India Office, states that telegrams, letters, newspapers, and parcels intended for officers and men who have been invalided to India from an Expeditionary Force should, until it is known to what hospital or station they have been sent, or till they leave India, be addressed to "C/o of Casualties, Bombay." Private telegrams should be handed in at an ordinary post office.

THE Court Circular states that by the command of the King Sir Arthur Walsh was present at Victoria Railway Station, London, yesterday evening upon arrival of the Prince of Monaco.

THE MARQUIS OF CREWE, who is still acting for Sir Edward Grey at the Foreign Office, was visited yesterday afternoon by the Italian and Japanese Ambassadors. Lord Stamfordham, Private Secretary to the King, also visited the Foreign Office.

THE SECRETARY OF STATE for the Colonies has appointed Mr. H. C. M. Lambert, C.B., and Mr. G. E. A. Grindle to be Assistant Under-Secretaries of State in the Colonial Office. He has also appointed Mr. H. C. M. Lambert to be Secretary to the Imperial Conference, in succession to Sir H. W. Just, K.C.M.G., C.B., who retires after completing thirty-eight years' service in the Colonial Office.

A semi-official announcement issued in Rome states that on Sunday morning an Italian warship torpedoed and sank an enemy merchantman in one of the Dalmatian channels.

Last evening two Buckhaven fishermen—Thomas Deas and John Robertson—were drowned off Wemyss Castle through the upsetting of their yawl by a gust of wind.

The offer of the Lord Lieutenant of Cambridgeshire to enrol volunteers under the Volunteer Act has been accepted by the King through Lord Kitchener.

The death is announced in Paris of M. Fernand Dubief, a former French Cabinet Minister.

FROM "THE TIMES" OF TO-DAY.

(BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT WITH THE PROPRIETORS OF THE TIMES.)

AFTER THE BATTLE.

The great naval action, says The Times, in the North Sea—the "Battle of Horn Reef" seems on the whole the best name for it—has affected the peoples of the Empire exactly as we foresaw and foretold. Canada, Australia, and New Zealand echo the clear voice we hear at home. In every quarter, and amongst all classes, it has hardened our resolution to fight on until the enemy is utterly and decisively beaten. That has always been the first result of fierce fighting in a just quarrel on men of the British race. No doubt has ever crossed their minds as to the justice of their present quarrel, and the news of the stern conflict of a week ago has acted as a wholesome stimulus to their determination.

THE QUEEN MARY'S END.

Describing what he has gathered of the battle, the Edinburgh Correspondent of The Times says—The disposition gave the enemy the advantage of the sunlight and of the slight haze which hung over the water, and they made full use of it. They opened fire on our leading ships, and a salvo from the German guns, almost the first they fired, struck the Queen Mary, and within six minutes of the opening of the battle a thunderous explosion tore the great ship asunder and she passed out of sight. So sudden was her end that explanations of the most sensational kind are offered. There are stories of bombs from aircraft, and according to one version a seaplane, brought down by her own gunfire, fell on her decks with its load of bombs. I cannot find any real support for these statements. What I am told is that until our gunners got to work, the German marksmanship was remarkably accurate, and that one of their first shots found the magazine.

THE WARSPITE AND THE WARRIOR.

The manner in which the Warspite, says The Times Portsmouth Correspondent, fought the whole of the German battle fleet and beat them when she went to the rescue of the Warrior provides one of the most thrilling battle stories in our annals. Quite helpless lay the Warrior, her engines disabled. Her magazines were under water, and the crew, unable to get ammunition, could no longer use their guns. Convinced that they would soon go the way of their companion ships, which they had seen sunk before their eyes, the Warrior's men calmly waited for the end. Suddenly on the horizon they saw a huge ship coming along at a tremendous pace through the water. It was the fast and powerful Warspite, which Admiral Jellicoe, learning of the Warrior's peril, had sent ahead of the Grand Fleet to succour her. The great battleship threw herself between the helpless Warrior and the German vessels that were battering her silent hull. The Warspite had beat them off single-handed, and succoured the Warrior, which the enemy had regarded as certain to fall an easy victim to their guns.

EDUCATION IN IRELAND.

In The Times' Educational Supplement for this month, "The Schoolmasters' Rebellion" is discussed, and it is pointed out that the rebellion has come like a douche of iced water on loyal Gaelic Leaguers, and that now only a miracle of tact and quiet patient reconstruction can save the language movement. There is evidence, the article proceeds, that in many of the National schools the teaching of late years has been distinctly anti-British. Mr. Birrell's Chief Secretaryship coincided with a marked decline in the prestige and authority of the Board of National Education. At the time when the Sinn Feiners began their propaganda in the schools the sense of discipline in a large section of the male teachers was dangerously slack. Some of the schools soon became centres of disloyalty. To many thoughtful observers, concludes the article, it appears that recent events indicate the need of a thorough reform of the system of Irish education from bottom to top.

THE STOCK EXCHANGE.

Stock Markets, says The Times, were more cheerful in tone yesterday, and business was a little more active than on Saturday. The War Loan rose a 1/16, and other investment stocks showed an improving tendency. In the speculative departments, Shipping Securities were buoyant again, and Courtaulds Shares were prominently firm. The number of bargains recorded was 2,670, as compared with 2,780 on Monday last week.

ARMY HONOURS.

C.M.G. ADDITIONAL MEMBERS.

Colonel H. N. Thompson, D.S.O., R.A.M.C.
Colonel C. W. R. Healey, R.A.M.C.
Colonel A. L. F. Bate, R.A.M.C.

THE D.S.O.

In the list of Birthday Honours appear the names of the following officers who have been given the D.S.O.:—

Major (temporary Lieutenant-Colonel) T. A. Nixon, 1st King's Own (Royal Lancaster Regiment).

Lieutenant-Colonel E. S. McAllister, A.S.C.

Lieutenant-Colonel Nixon is the eldest son of Major-General Nixon, Clone, Ballyragget, County Kilkenny.

Colonel McAllister served in the Boer War, and has been in France since August, 1914. He was mentioned in despatches by Sir John French. He is a son of Mr. P. F. McAllister, 15 Waterloo road, Dublin.

THE MILITARY CROSS.

The Military Cross has been awarded to the following Irish officers:—

Lieutenant Frederick Frank Minchin, R.F.C., has been awarded the Military Cross "for conspicuous gallantry and skill on many occasions." He is the youngest son of General Minchin, who is now in America, and a grandson of the late Mr. Falkiner J. Minchin, J.P., of Annagh, Nenagh, County Tipperary, who died recently. His eldest brother is a First Gunnery Lieutenant in the Fleet, who distinguished himself at the Dardanelles and in the Mediterranean. Lieutenant Minchin, who belongs to Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, but is attached to the Royal Flying Corps, led a successful bomb and machine gun raid on a force of the enemy, which he had located overnight. Next day he took part in two other raids. During these operations he flew for thirteen hours over enemy country.

Second Lieutenant Turner, 6th Service Battalion Royal Dublin Fusiliers, has been awarded the Military Cross for gallantry in action. Lieutenant Turner joined the South Irish Horse shortly after the outbreak of the war, and was afterwards gazetted to a commission in the 6th R.D.F. He served at Suvla Bay with his battalion, which formed part of the gallant 10th (Irish) Division. He afterwards went to the Balkans, where he was wounded. For his conduct on this occasion Lieutenant R. Turner was mentioned in despatches. He now receives the Military Cross. During Lieutenant R. Turner's visit to his home in Dublin on sick leave whilst recovering from wounds he spent a large part of his time on recruiting platforms in an effort to get Dublin men for the Dublin Fusiliers. At the same time a brother of his, Second Lieutenant A. E. Turner, 17th Durham Light Infantry, was at home, recovering from wounds received in action. Both officers are sons of Mr. David Turner, Mountpleasant square, Ranelagh. During the recent outbreak in Dublin Lieutenant R. Turner served in the neighbourhood of the Broad-stone Station and Constitution Hill, where many of his men suffered, and several officers and men lost their lives.

Lieutenant Isaac W. Corkey, R.A.M.C., has been awarded the Military Cross for distinguished gallantry on the field. Lieutenant Corkey, who is the only son of Mrs. Corkey, Churchill Villas, Ballsbridge, volunteered for service immediately after taking his degree at Dublin University, and was posted to the 15th Battalion Royal Irish Rifles (Ulster Division), with whom he has seen considerable service. He came home to Dublin on Easter Monday on leave, and at once placed his services at the disposal of the military authorities. He was attached to the soldiers operating in the North King street district, and had several days of exciting experience. He is now back at the front.

GREAT RUSSIAN ADVANCE.

FROM THE PRIPET TO RUMANIA.

13,000 AUSTRIANS TAKEN.

DEFENCES SMASHED AND STORMED.

Yesterday's Petrograd communiqué says:—

Western Front.—German artillery bombarded Ixkull bridgehead. In Dvinsk region, north of the Ponievege Railway line, the enemy, after sweeping our trenches with gusts of fire, attempted to take the offensive, but was thrown back.

Yesterday morning fighting began, which extended from the Pripet River front to the Rumanian frontier. In many sectors our troops, supported by artillery, achieved important successes. Up to now they have made about 13,000 prisoners and captured guns and machine guns. Fighting is developing. Our artillery is progressively demolishing the enemy's works and shelters, and as the success of artillery preparation becomes evident the infantry advances and captures enemy positions.

In the course of the fighting yesterday Col. J. Lourie was killed and Col. von Tsigler seriously wounded.

GREAT BATTLE DEVELOPING.

Yesterday's Austrian communiqué:—

An attack by the Russian South-Western Army, which has been expected for a long time, began on the whole front between the Pruth and the Styr, and a great battle is developing. North-east of Okna severe fighting is in progress. North-west of the Arnopol the enemy temporarily succeeded in penetrating some points of our trenches, but a counter-attack repulsed it. Near Sapanow Olyka fierce battles are also proceeding.

HEAVY FIGHTING ON ITALIAN FRONT.

DESPERATE AUSTRIAN EFFORTS.

(PRESS ASSOCIATION WAR SPECIAL.)

Last night's Rome communiqué states:—

In the valley of the Daone enemy detachments on Saturday made a surprise attack on our advance post in the neighbourhood of Malga Staboletno. On the arrival of reinforcements a counter-attack was launched against the enemy, and he was put to flight. In the valley of the Ledro the enemy's artillery displayed intense activity, which, however, did not result in any damage to us. In the valley of the Lagarina, after the usual bombardment with guns of the heaviest calibre, the enemy yesterday attempted to carry out an attack on the stretch of front from Monte Giovo to Tierno as a diversion, while he was making a serious attack on the position of Conizugna. He was repulsed with heavy losses.

In the Pasubio sector there were artillery duels and skirmishes between small detachments. Along the Posina-Astico front, after an intense artillery preparation, the enemy tried a fresh violent effort in the direction of Monte Alba and the Colle Posina. After a desperate struggle enemy infantry, which was mown down by our fire, fell back in disorder.

In the Cengio zone an enemy attack, carried out on Saturday night with greatly superior forces, compelled our troops to evacuate their positions. They fell back on the line of the Canaglia Valley which had already been strengthened. We still retain possession of the western slopes of Monte Cengio as far as Schiri, and two violent attacks made upon them by the enemy the same night were broken against them. On the remainder of the front as far as the Brenta there were artillery actions. On the Isonzo some enterprising raids by our detachments resulted in the capture of arms and prisoners.

FIGHTING IN THE CAUCASUS.

TURKISH ATTACKS FAIL.

(PRESS ASSOCIATION WAR SPECIAL.)

Yesterday's Petrograd communiqué:—

In Erzingan region the Turks repeatedly took the offensive with large effectives, but met with no success. Fighting continues on the approaches to the Barnakaban road, and a struggle is proceeding near Evanduzi. Our troops have inflicted severe losses on the Kurds. One of our columns has found two mountain guns, which had been buried in the earth.

TURKS CLAIM SUCCESSES.

Yesterday's Turkish communiqué:—

Caucasian Front.—There has been unimportant infantry fire on the right wing and in the centre. Enemy detachments stationed in the villages south-east of the sector of Bashekevy, in the valley of Elmalidere, were repulsed towards the east. We captured a non-commissioned officer and five soldiers. We drove off the enemy from the Marram Mountain, north-west of Mamahatun, and captured the heights, taking ten prisoners. In the sectors of Kope-Aschoruk there have been skirmishes. In the Wastal sector the enemy is continuing energetically his fortification works. During a skirmish near Katia between an enemy cavalry regiment and one of our cavalry squadrons the enemy was repulsed in disorder.

ANXIETY IN COUNTY CORK.

The great naval battle has caused anxiety in many homes in West Cork, especially around Kinsale, from which district alone hundreds of men are serving in the Grand Fleet. Crosshaven, Aghada, and Ringaskiddy, at Cork Harbour mouth, are strongly represented. There is reason to hope that the actual number of casualties from Cork city and county will not be exceptionally heavy as regards the lower decks, but the loss of Commander Townsend, of the Invincible, son of Dr. R. H. Townsend, Queenstown, and Dr. Sidney Edward Punch, Cork City, who went down with the Indefatigable, is greatly regretted.

MAJOR GERALD C. ROONEY.

Major Gerald C. Rooney, R.M.L.I., of H.M.S. Queen Mary, killed in action on the 31st ult., in the North Sea, was the second son of Colonel and Mrs. Rooney, of Monkstown, Dublin, and was an officer of considerable attainments in his profession, and well known in his branch of the service.

LIEUTENANT FRANK P. O'REILLY.

Lieutenant Frank Power O'Reilly, R.N., was one of those who went down off the Jutland coast in the recent naval battle, with H.M.S. Invincible, in which he was serving on the staff of Admiral the Hon. Horace L. A. Hood, C.B. Lieutenant O'Reilly was the eldest son of Mr. Terence O'Reilly, of 11 Upper Pembroke street, Dublin. He was educated at Stonyhurst College, from which he passed into the Britannia in 1902, becoming a midshipman sixteen months later, and Sub-Lieutenant and Lieutenant in 1907 and 1909 respectively. He served in many well known ships, such as the Cressy, Hogue, Triumph, Duncan, Black Prince, Edward VII., and Invincible. He also saw service in the smaller craft, and was at different periods in command. Shortly after the commencement of the war he joined Admiral Bradford's staff on King Edward VII., subsequently joining the staff of Admiral Hood in the Invincible.

LIEUTENANT VICTOR A. EWART.

Amongst the officers lost in the great naval battle on Wednesday is Lieutenant Victor Alexander Ewart, only son and heir of Major-General Sir Henry Peter Ewart, and nephew of Lady Cecelie Goff, Carrowroe Park, Roscommon. Lieutenant Ewart was only 25 years of age. He was attached to the Queen Mary.

THE NORTH SEA FIGHT.

GERMAN REPORTS DENIED.

FURTHER ACCOUNTS OF THE BATTLE.

ENEMY LOSSES GROWING.

A NEW GERMAN VERSION.

SEMI-OFFICIAL STATEMENT.

(PRESS ASSOCIATION WAR SPECIAL.)

The following semi-official description of the naval battle, in addition to what has already been published in official telegrams, has been issued in Berlin:—

The German High Sea forces pushed forward in order to engage portions of the British Fleet which were repeatedly reported recently to be off the south coast of Norway. At 4.30 on Wednesday afternoon, some seventy miles off Skager Rack, four small cruisers of the Calliope class were sighted by our cruisers. The latter at once pursued the enemy, who ran away with all speed northwards. At 5.20 our cruisers sighted in the west two enemy columns, consisting of six battle cruisers and a large number of small cruisers. The enemy returned towards the south. Our cruisers approached to within 19 kilometres, and opened a very effective fire on southerly and south-easterly courses. During the battle two British cruisers and one destroyer were destroyed.

After half an hour's fighting more powerful enemy forces were sighted north of the enemy columns. These were later observed to be five vessels of the Queen Elizabeth class. Soon afterwards the German main force entered the fight.

The enemy at once turned to the north, and the five vessels of the Queen Elizabeth class followed the English battle cruisers at the greatest speed. The enemy attempted to evade our extremely effective fire by assuming an echelon formation, trying thereby an eastern course to overtake our advanced end. Our Fleet followed at top speed the movements of the enemy. In the course of this phase of the fighting one cruiser of the Achilles or Shannon class and two destroyers were destroyed.

At this time the rearmost portion of our battleship squadron, owing to its distant position, could not yet take part in the action.

Soon afterwards fresh strong enemy forces appeared from the north, consisting, as was soon established, of more than twenty enemy battleships of the latest construction. As the head of our line temporarily came under fire from both sides, our line was turned more to a westerly course.

Simultaneously torpedo boat flotillas were sent against the enemy. They attacked with great spirit and visible success, three times running into this fighting sector.

A British Dreadnought was destroyed, while a number of others must have suffered heavy damage. The battle against superior British forces lasted until darkness fell.

Besides numerous light forces, at least twenty-five British battleships, six battle cruisers, and at least four armoured cruisers were engaged, against sixteen German battleships, five battle cruisers, six older ships of the line, and no armoured cruisers.

After dark our flotillas opened a night attack. During the night cruiser engagements and numerous torpedo boat attacks took place, resulting in the destruction of one battle cruiser, one cruiser of the Achilles class or Shannon class, one, and probably two, small cruisers, and at least ten destroyers, of which our leading vessels of the High Sea Fleet destroyed six. Among them were two new destroyer leaders, the Turbulent and Tipperary.

A British squadron of older battleships, which hurried up from the south, did not arrive until Thursday morning, after the conclusion of the battle, and returned without taking part in any action or having come within sight of our main force.

GERMAN REPORT DENIED.

(PRESS ASSOCIATION WAR SPECIAL.)

The official report issued by the German Admiralty says:—On May 31st one of our submarines off the Humber destroyed a big British destroyer of the latest type.

According to a statement made by one of the crew who was rescued from the British destroyer Tipperary, the British armoured cruiser Euryalus was set on fire by our forces during the battle of Skage Rak, and completely burnt out.

With reference to this telegram, Reuter's Agency has received the following announcement from the Secretary of the Admiralty:—

No British destroyer nor any other British warship of any description has been destroyed off the Humber or anywhere else by submarine or by any other agency since the action on May 31st.

H.M.S. Euryalus was not present in the North Sea during this battle, and was, therefore, not sunk by German fire.

It would appear from the fact of these two false allegations being officially circulated by the German Admiralty Staff that they are anxious by any means to exaggerate the British casualties, which have been already fully and completely announced.

AN UNFOUNDED GERMAN CLAIM.

(PRESS ASSOCIATION WAR SPECIAL.)

The Press Association has received from an authoritative source some further details of the naval battle off Jutland, which go to prove the falseness of the claims put forward in the German communiqué. With regard to the enemy claims to a German naval victory, it is only necessary to state that later information to hand shows that, as a result of the action in the North Sea, the German Fleet was actually driven into German ports, closely pursued by the British Fleet. The flight of the German Battle Fleet was hastened by a determined attack by British destroyers. It is a curious commentary on the claims of a German victory.

"HURRAH" DYING DOWN.

(TIMES TELEGRAM, PER PRESS ASSOCIATION)

AMSTERDAM, SUNDAY.

There is a considerable absence of news about the sea fight in the Berlin papers of to-day. The Lokalanzeiger prints across the whole of the front page in large letters the heading: "After the victory of our Fleet in the North Sea." The Berliner Tageblatt similarly prints: "After the sea battle at the Skager Rak. But beneath these imposing headings there is really nothing new. Most items printed are telegrams from Holland, giving English and Dutch Press opinions, and the story of the skipper of the Dutch trawler, John Brown, already known in England, the official communiqués, and messages of congratulation exchanged between various persons and bodies in Germany.

One notices in the latest German papers an absence of the "Hurrah" tone which marked the first announcement of the battle.

WHOLE GERMAN FLEET ENGAGED.

ZEPPELINS AT WORK.

(PRESS ASSOCIATION WAR SPECIAL.)

YMUIDEN, SUNDAY.

The steam trawler Henriette Jacoba, No. 190, entered port to-day. She witnessed the naval battle from a point to the east of the vessels engaged. According to a statement made by members of the crew the whole German High Seas Fleet, of over 80 ships, was engaged with the advance guard of the British Fleet, consisting of about twenty vessels. The crew believed that the German vessels fled immediately on the approach of a greater part of the British Fleet. The details they give confirm the statements of the crews of the trawlers John Brown and Anna Jozina, who saw light signals ordering the Germans to retire. The trawler was so near the action between five and six in the afternoon that conversation was impossible on board, owing to the thunder of the guns. The skipper was anxious to escape, but did not know where to turn to. When the battle was heaviest the crew saw two Zeppelins flying at tremendous speed, much faster than any of the many airships they had previously observed during the war, and they presumed that the airships were warning the German Fleet of the approach of the main body of the British Fleet, as shortly afterwards the intensity of the gunfire diminished. Soon after 7 in the evening the gunfire became still heavier than during the day, as all the British war vessels were now together. It gradually slackened, and after ten o'clock only scattered shots were heard at a great distance.

"BRITANNIA STILL RULES THE WAVES."

AMERICAN COMMENT.

(TIMES TELEGRAM, PER PRESS ASSOCIATION)

NEW YORK, SUNDAY.

"Britannia still rules the waves." This is now the view which Americans, with their instinct for essentials, take of the result of the naval battle. All secondary considerations are pushed aside by public opinion, which sees that there is not the slightest alteration in the situation in the North Sea.

The fact that the Germans reached America first with their version has had no serious consequences, for the German report is now seen to vary so essentially from the true facts as to discredit the Berlin Admiralty for truthfulness.

The New York Times, commenting on the battle, says:—In Germany the situation's importance has been enormously exaggerated. Popular enthusiasm has been permitted to run away with two ideas—that England's mastery of the seas is broken, and that the title of Admiral of the World has bestowed itself on the Kaiser. Disillusionment is bound to follow. The hateful blockade will not be less vigorous. Food will not be more plentiful in Berlin. It seems clear that the British were not outclassed in the fighting; the loss that they suffered was in that phase of the battle during which their cruiser units were engaged by Dreadnoughts, and the odds were much against them. When the German High Seas Fleet did really meet the British Grand Fleet the naval supremacy of the English was immediately incontestable.

The Herald says:—It is the accepted maxim of war that success belongs to him who holds the contested field, and exerts continuing pressure on the retreating enemy. The Germans having shot their bolt, and recognising their inferiority to the Grand Fleet, felt discretion to be the better part of valour. The success of the day and night, tactically and morally measured, rests with the British. Possibly two battleships will be substituted in the American naval programme for two battle cruisers, because the weakness of the latter type is believed to have been shown in the Jutland engagement.

(PRESS ASSOCIATION WAR SPECIAL.)

NEW YORK, MONDAY.

The consensus of genuine American editorial opinion on the North Sea battle may be summed up in a single paragraph in the New York World:—"The German Navy is still a Navy in jail, which assaults its jailer now and then with great fury, but which remains in jail, nevertheless."

DESCRIPTION BY SAILORS.

A Petty Officer on board one of the battle cruisers stated in an interview that the Invincible was the first of the battle cruisers to go down. She was poured into by a German battleship of the Kaiser class, and she went down with over a thousand men. Rear-Admiral Horace Hood, second in command of the Battle Cruiser Squadron, was on board. Shortly afterwards the Indefatigable was sunk. A few minutes later the Queen Mary went down. Meanwhile fearful punishment had been inflicted on the German battleships. The German losses in men and ships must have been colossal. Several of our battle cruisers returned without a scratch.

A Times Edinburgh correspondent says—The men of the Fleet say that the German battleship Hindenburg is at the bottom of the sea, and as to other German ships it will be many days before they are heard of. Bombs from above were a constant peril to our ships.

A Hull message says—An officer describing the fight says that the Invincible was struck by a full salvo from a German battleship and sank within a short time, carrying with her Admiral Hood and 800 men. The Indefatigable was also struck and went down with over 800 men on board, few, if any, of whom were saved. Next to go down was the Queen Mary, which was hit by a rain of shells. She carried over 1,000 men, and it is believed seven only were saved. The impression was that the German Fleet had a most fearful pummelling.

Another man interviewed said it was very galling to find the enemy hastily retreat when the British main Fleet arrived.

SURVIVORS OF THE SPARROWHAWK.

Some 25 survivors of a lost British torpedo boat, understood to be the Sparrowhawk, have been landed at a north-east coast port. The men are remarkably cheerful. It is understood that they succeeded in jumping on board a vessel which brought them to port after their own vessel was found to be sinking. The rescuing vessel was in the thick of the fighting, and several of the crew were killed by one German shell. In further fighting the vessel was so damaged that she was unable to make for port after the action had concluded. She drifted about until assistance arrived. During the interval no enemy vessels were seen.

SPITFIRE'S FINE PERFORMANCE.

Glowing testimony was paid to the destroyer Spitfire for the part she played in the engagement. This vessel, which is now in port, bears marks of having received several heavy blows. It is stated that a German cruiser attempted to ram her, but that the destroyer was turned and received only a glancing blow. The destroyer, at close quarters, fired a torpedo at the enemy, and the crew claim that the German vessel went down. The Commander of the Spitfire had a wonderful escape. While on the bridge a shell passed across his chest, and even touched the buttons on his uniform. The shell then struck the signalling apparatus, and carried it away, along with two men. All the men who were spoken with declared that the German losses had been very heavy.

"THE NELSON TRADITION."

The Navy League last night issued a statement tendering to Admiral Jellicoe and the officers and men of the Fleet its warmest congratulations on their courage, skill, and sacrifice, which have raised the standard of the whole Fleet to the highest level of the Nelson tradition. The League offers its respectful sympathy to the families of the fallen, declares that Admiral Beatty discharged his trust with conspicuous qualities of leadership, and affirms that the British victory will strengthen the conviction among our Allies and the people of our Dominions that British sea power is the determinant factor in the war. The League regrets the delay in the issue of the Admiralty announcement, and regards it as deplorable that the Government, with the facts of the great action in their possession, allowed Parliament to adjourn on Thursday without making the fullest statement possible on the greatest historic event since Trafalgar.

SEYDLITZ BADLY DAMAGED.

(PRESS ASSOCIATION WAR SPECIAL.)

COPENHAGEN, MONDAY.

The Ribe Stiftstidende says that the German battle cruiser Seydlitz was sighted on the morning of June 1st, 38 miles west of Faroe, going south, pursued by British warships. She was very badly damaged all over, and had two great holes.

Numerous families in Schleswig have received the usual official information from the German Admiralty at Kiel, that their relatives in the navy were killed in the naval battle on May 31, or are missing. Among the casualties thus notified are a large number of the crew of the Seydlitz.

AT WILHELMSHAVEN.

A SIGNIFICANT ANNOUNCEMENT.

(PRESS ASSOCIATION WAR SPECIAL.)

COPENHAGEN, MONDAY.

The Wilhelmshavener Zeitung contains a significant and prominent announcement in big type, signed by the Governor of the Fortress of Wilhelmshaven, informing the public that permission for temporary visits to the town will only be granted in cases of the utmost urgency during the next few months, and that written applications must be sent to the police beforehand.

FURTHER CASUALTIES.

The Secretary of the Admiralty announces the following additional casualties amongst officers serving in the ships which took part in the action in the North Sea on the 31st May:—

KILLED.

Lieut.-Commander ARTHUR G. ONSLOW, D.S.O.
Lieut. ALFRED BAKEWELL.
Gunner CHARLES McCARTHY.

SUFFERING FROM GAS POISONING.

Lieut. PERCY HARRISON, R.N.V.R.

CORRECTION.

With reference to the list of casualties which appeared in the Press on the 5th inst., the rank of Commander Robert H. Llewellyn should be as now shown, and not as therein stated.

IRELAND'S NAVAL ROLL OF HONOUR.

Of the eighteen names which appear in the roll of Honour in our obituary column yesterday and to-day, sixteen are those of gallant Irish sailors who were killed in action in the great battle in the North Sea. Four of them fought in the Queen Mary, and four in the Indefatigable. The list, which includes a midshipman of sixteen, an only child, is a splendid proof that Irishmen and Irish boys are fighting their country's battles with the same eagerness and devotion on sea as on land.

SPECIAL EXTRA.

SURVIVORS OF THE SHARK.

A young able seaman named Charles Herbert Smith, who is one of only six survivors of the destroyer Shark, stated yesterday that while he and others were drifting about on a raft a young officer who was with them asked them to sing, and they joined in the hymn, "Nearer, my God, to Thee." Afterwards Smith became unconscious. They were floating in the sea for over five hours before being picked up by the Danish steamer Vidar. One of the men died.

"GRAVE INJUSTICE."

CRITICISMS OF NAVAL OFFICERS.

PRESS BUREAU, MONDAY, 10.35 P.M.

The Secretary of the Admiralty makes the following announcement:—

In one or two newspapers doubts have been raised as to the professional conduct of sea officers holding high command, who took part in the recent battle. It cannot be too clearly stated that as no definite report from the Commander-in-Chief has been published, or even received, any attempts to criticise the direction of the operations must be wholly conjectural, and such aspersions inflict grave injustice upon the able and gallant officers to whose care is confided the command of His Majesty's squadrons and ships.

DEATH OF COMMANDER PENNELL.

The President of the Royal Geographical Society last night announced with regret that Commander Pennell, who was in Scott's Antarctic Expedition, perished in the naval battle.

HOME SECRETARY IN DUBLIN.

RECEPTION OF DEPUTATIONS.

The Home Secretary (Mr. Herbert Samuel, M.P.) left Dublin last evening for London. Attended by his Private Secretary (Sir John Barran, M.P.), he was at Dublin Castle early yesterday, where he had further conferences with reference to the claims for compensation for the damage done to property in Dublin during the rebellion week. An early visitor was Mr. John Redmond, M.P. At 11 o'clock a deputation from the Corporation of Dublin was received by Mr. Samuel. The deputation consisted of the Lord Mayor, Aldermen Delahunt, Moran, and McWalter; Councillors Sir Patrick Shortall, John Scully, John Ryan, and W. P. Delany, High Sheriff. The Town Clerk and the Law Agent were also present. The object of the deputation was to place before the Home Secretary the views of the Corporation with reference to the re-building of the demolished premises and the powers which the Corporation seeks with regard to that rebuilding.

At noon a deputation from the Fire and Property Losses Association waited upon the right hon. gentleman in connection with the question of compensation. That deputation was accompanied by Messrs. J. J. Clancy, M.P.; Wm. Field, M.P.; P. J. Brady, M.P.; P. White, M.P.; J. D. Nugent, M.P.; and Alderman Byrne, M.P.

The proceedings were not open to the Press.

Mr. Herbert Samuel, Home Secretary, and party arrived at Douglas, Isle of Man, from Dublin last night.

DUBLIN PROPERTY OWNERS' LOSSES.

COMPENSATION COMMITTEE APPOINTED.

It is understood that the Government has appointed Sir Wm. J. Goulding, Bart., Chairman of the Great Southern and Western Railway Co.; Mr. Samuel J. Pipkin, general manager of the Atlas Insurance Co.; and Mr. John Osborne, a member of the firm of Sels and Co., fire assessors, London, to be the tribunal that will deal with the claims of the sufferers by the fire, and assess the damages in each case.

THE NEW ZEALAND.

The Scotsman says:—Though the name of H.M.S. New Zealand does not appear in the official reports of the North Sea battle, this fine ship was in the action. She was flying the flag of Admiral Pakenham, Commanding Second Battle Cruiser Squadron, and her position in the line was next astern of the Tiger throughout the whole battle. Some of the reports of the line of battle are, we are informed, erroneous. The first ship was the Lion, the second Princess Royal, the third Queen Mary, then came the Tiger, New Zealand, and Indefatigable. These were the ships which bore the brunt of the battle for half an hour, until the battleships came up. The fire of the New Zealand, we learn, so punished the ship that engaged her that they were unable to do her more than the most trifling damage. It may be recalled that the New Zealand also took part in the Heligoland and the Dogger Bank actions.

AMERICAN PRESIDENTIAL PROSPECTS.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAM.)

CHICAGO, MONDAY.

All the States of the Union are represented by delegates to the Republican and the Progressive Conventions, who have already arrived here. The Hughes boom has grown somewhat in proportion to what was expected. A large group of Republicans, however, still declare that Mr. Roosevelt is their first choice, and the conflict of the adherents of these leaders may easily result in a compromise of some so-called "dark horse." The Progressives continue to be faithful to Mr. Roosevelt. It is significant that the Progressive National Committee have decided that their Convention shall refrain from making nominations until Saturday, in order that they may await the action of the Republicans.

VOLUNTEERS ON TRIAL IN TYRONE.

EXTRAORDINARY PROCEEDINGS.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

DUNGANNON, MONDAY.

Arising out of the arrival of a large party of alleged Sinn Fein Volunteers from Dublin and Belfast at Cookstown and Coalisland, County Tyrone, on Easter Sunday, two Belfast men were charged at Dungannon Quarter Sessions to-day, before Judge Linehan, K.C. John Dillon, 49 Gibson street, Belfast, was indicted for discharging firearms at three women on the public road at Cookstown, on Easter Sunday.

Mr. Mullan, solicitor, Cookstown, who defended, applied for an adjournment on the ground that eight witnesses for the defence had been since arrested and deported.

Mr. Carson, S.C.S., opposed the application on the ground of short notice, and his Honor stated that the magistrates had decided to proceed with the hearing of the case.

On the calling of the petty jury a number of jurors were challenged by the Crown, and Mr. Mullan exhausted his peremptory challenges. When the next juror was called Mr. Mullan challenged him on the ground that he was prejudiced.

A jury of two was then empannelled, and Mr. Mullan examined the proposed juryman, and questioned him as to his having read the report of the magisterial investigations in the case, and having formed an opinion.

The jury of two then retired, but it was afterwards found that the brother of one of them had gone into the jury room with them. A police constable was sent in, and the intruder was taken out. Mr. Mullan thereupon objected to the finding of the jury on the ground that the third man had spoken to them while they were considering their verdict.

His Honor ordered a fresh jury to be empannelled, and they retired, but later announced that they could not agree.

Mr. Carson then applied to have the case adjourned to the next Quarter Sessions as the list of jurors had been exhausted, and it was impossible to proceed.

His Honor acquiesced, and the accused was accordingly remanded, and admitted to bail.

A similar course was adopted with regard to Jeremiah Hurley, 9 Amelia street, Belfast, who was charged with assaulting Head Constable O'Neill at Cookstown on Easter Sunday, and obstructing him in the discharge of his duty.

Sir Edward Nicholl, Cardiff, shipowner, whose name appeared among the Knights in the Birthday Honours list, has given Cardiff Infirmary £10,000.

VERDUN FIGHT.

FIERCE ATTACK ON VAUX FORT.

GOOD WORK BY BRITISH.

There has been considerable activity on the British front. The official report states that our troops entered the German trenches at five different points, with the result that forty of the enemy were killed.

Yesterday's afternoon French report indicates further heavy fighting in the Verdun region. The Germans made a desperate effort to penetrate Vaux fort, but it was gallantly repulsed by the French, notwithstanding the enemy's use of liquid fire.

The night French report states that there is now a comparative lull owing to bad weather.

The Germans report that on Sunday the British made an attack against the position lost by them south-east of Ypres, but that it failed to effect its purpose.

BRITISH OFFICIAL.

Last night's British communiqué states:—

There is no material change in the situation at Zillebeke. The night passed quietly, but to-day there has been a good deal of shelling by both sides. The enemy made a small attack last night in this locality. This was easily repulsed. In other parts of the line several minor enterprises were carried out by both sides. The enemy made a raid near Borselle, which followed a heavy bombardment. Some few casualties were caused to our troops before the enemy retired, leaving his dead on the ground. A second hostile raid, attempted after a mine explosion, north-east of Arras, was unsuccessful. The enemy were driven back, and we have occupied the craters formed.

Our infantry entered the German trenches in five different places between Cuinchy and Fauquissart. Two of our parties were particularly successful in causing loss to the hostile garrisons, killing some forty of the enemy.

The mine warfare has continued actively in the sector Hulluch to Givenchy. Five mines have been sprung by us and one by the enemy during the past 24 hours.

FRENCH OFFICIAL.

(PRESS ASSOCIATION WAR SPECIAL.)

Yesterday afternoon's French communiqué says:—

East of the Meuse the Germans during the evening and night continued their attacks against our positions in the region of Vaux and Damloup, north-west of the fort of Vaux.

On the slopes of the Bois Friman the enemy's repeated attempts were completely checked by our fire.

All assaults delivered between the fort and the village of Damloup were also smashed.

During the night a desperate struggle took place between the garrison of Vaux fort and the elements, who endeavoured to penetrate therein.

Despite the jets of liquid fire, of which the enemy made much use, our troops prevented them from making any progress.

In the Chapheaunt-Douaumont region the artillery duel continued with extreme violence.

On the left bank of the Meuse there was an intermittent bombardment.

In the Vosges a surprise attack by the enemy to the west of Carspach put him in possession of trench elements.

Our counter-attack, delivered shortly afterwards, drove the Germans out of all the elements they had occupied.

Last night's communiqué:—

On the northern front of Verdun bad weather has hampered the operations. No infantry action was reported in the course of the day. The bombardment continued with some intensity in the region of Vaux-Damloup and against the fort of Vaux, where the situation remains unchanged. On the left bank of the Meuse there was an intermittent artillery duel in the Avocourt sector.

GERMAN OFFICIAL.

Yesterday's Berlin communiqué:—

Western Theatre of War.—Yesterday the British again made an attack against the positions lost by them to the south-east of Ypres. It collapsed under our artillery fire. A weak French attack, preceded by the release of gas, near Prunay, Champagne, likewise failed.

On the western bank of the Meuse our artillery engaged the enemy batteries and fortified buildings with good results. The French infantry which endeavoured to advance against our trenches west of the road from Haucourt to Esnes were repulsed. On the right bank of the river fierce fighting continued with undiminished vigour between the Caillette Wood and Damloup. The enemy tried by massed infantry attacks to contest the successes we had achieved. The greatest exertions were made by the enemy in the Chapitre Wood, on the Fumin Ridge, south-west of the village of Vaux, and in the region to the south-east. All French counter-attacks were repulsed with very heavy losses to the enemy.

German reconnoitring detachments penetrated the enemy trenches on the Yser, north-east of Albert and near Altkirch, and brought back the following unwounded prisoners:—Thirty Frenchmen, eight Belgians, and thirty-five British. They also captured a machine gun.

In air battles near the Marne Ridge, near Cumières, and at Fort Souville a French aeroplane was brought down in each case.

The encounters of our airmen during May were most successful. The enemy lost in air fights thirty-six aeroplanes; shot down from the ground, nine; and from involuntary landings behind our lines, two. Total, forty-seven. Our own losses were—In air battles, eleven; machines not returned, five. Total, sixteen.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY

OPENED IN BELFAST.

THE DUBLIN REBELLION.

DR. HAMILL AND THE IRISH QUESTION.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

BELFAST, MONDAY NIGHT.

The annual deliberations of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Ireland opened this afternoon in the Church House, Belfast. The Moderator, the Right Rev. Dr. Hamill, presided, and there was a large attendance of clerical and lay members from all parts of Ireland.

MODERATOR'S CLOSING ADDRESS.

The Moderator, who received a cordial greeting, delivered his valedictory address. At the outset he referred to the deaths of 25 ministers during the year. He extended the sympathy of the Assembly to the relatives of the deceased ministers, and also expressed the sympathy of the Church, as well as his own sympathy, with those bereaved by the ruthless hand of war. They held in high honour the brave men and lads who had not counted their lives dear to them when their country claimed their service. "Shall we not always associate with those martyrs of liberty," he proceeded, "those great heartening words of Our Lord—'Greater love hath no man than this, that he lay down his life for his friends,' and honour them accordingly? We shall all welcome the advent of peace and the return to their homes of those for whom daily and weekly prayers are offered in the closet and in the congregation throughout our Church. May God hasten that glad day. Yet we desire no inconclusive or patched-up peace which would leave alive and vigorous the deep-lying, hell-born forces which have brought the war upon us. That would be but an armed truce portending a more bitter struggle in the not distant future. We have no reason to be ashamed of our Presbyterians who have joined the forces of the Crown," proceeded the Moderator, amidst applause. "Would that we could be as proud of everything Irish. But there are things which we could all wish might be buried in oblivion, times when one questions whether silence would not be wiser than speech. I should greatly prefer if I were free to say nothing about the deplorable and disgraceful outbreak of revolutionary madness which in Easter week occasioned the loss of so many precious lives, and reduced so much of the centre of Dublin to a heap of ruins. Officially I was brought into indirect touch with what transpired in two ways. At the instance of our Committee on the State of the Country I addressed a letter to our gracious King when the rising took place, tendering to His Majesty the assurance of the steadfast loyalty of his Irish Presbyterian subjects. And I had the pleasure of receiving and transmitting to the Dublin Presbytery a letter from General Sir John Maxwell, acknowledging services rendered by our ministers in Dublin at that most anxious and critical juncture. With the congregation, the minister, and members of Lower Abbey street, whose church buildings with all their contents have perished in the conflagration, we most sincerely sympathise. Is it wise to say anything more of this lamentable outbreak?

THE FUTURE OF IRELAND.

"One thing seems sure: in the memories it leaves and the consequences it entails it must deeply affect, though how we can hardly yet conjecture, the future of our country. The methods of government—or misgovernment—of which it was the climax and the outcome, are clearly at an end. Yet what appears in many organs of public opinion across the Channel makes one's heart at times sink at the thought of what may come instead. So many are prescribing for us today who seem to be little better than blind leaders of the blind, wholly misunderstanding the realities of the situation. Surely these might first set themselves to find a satisfactory answer to the question why a clever, intelligent people, by nature warm-hearted, generous, easily influenced for good or evil, are so discontented, distrustful, restless, ready to follow almost any shrill-voiced enthusiast or fanatical demagogue who sets before them in exaggerated enough terms as the sure panacea for all their grievances, what, if they had it, would but intensify their woes. Do any of us believe that any political or social nostrum can be found which will make Ireland what we should all rejoice to see her—peaceful, loyal, prosperous, happy? To really solve the problem the activities of our Irish Mission might need to be many times multiplied, but the direction in which they move is at least that in which the solution lies. The supreme need is the effective contact of the Gospel of God's free grace with the springs of the Irish character.

THE NEW MODERATOR.

Rev. Dr. West, Antrim, who had received the largest number of nominations of Presbyteries was then elected Moderator for the ensuing year. In the course of his address to the Assembly Dr. West said:—In the midst of this world-wide war we are sorry to see our beloved land, Ireland, divided and distracted, and the fearful loss of life and property in the recent rebellion. We are now under martial law, but no law-abiding subject has anything to fear from the maintenance of law and order from a Government that is not vacillating from fear of any party, but firm and fair to all classes, conditions and creeds, for the advancement of peace and prosperity, for the good of all the people. (Applause.)

Subsequently an intercessory service was held, conducted by the Rev. J. C. Johnston, M.A., and Mr. Alex. Gray, M.A., Dublin.

Rev. Dr. Hamill proposed the following resolution:—

The General Assembly, at its opening session, desires to express the heartfelt sorrow of all Irish Presbyterians at the prolongation of the terrible and desolating war our nation has been forced to wage on behalf of truth and righteousness and national liberty. It would, at the same time, record its profound conviction that our Government has been abundantly justified in throwing the full resources of the British Empire into this life-and-death struggle against the aggressive and unscrupulous militarism of the Germanic Powers.

The Assembly would assure our beloved King, and all in authority under him, that the members of the Irish Presbyterian Church remain steadfast in loyalty to the Throne and Constitution of the United Kingdom; that they deplore, and strongly condemn, the spirit manifested in the recent outbreak of revolutionary violence in Ireland, with its lamentable loss of life; and that they are thoroughly at one with the rest of the Empire, whose loyal rally to the Imperial standard has been so heartening and strengthening, in desiring to co-operate in every way possible in order to bring the war to a triumphant issue.

The Assembly would further record its profound sense of the debt we owe to the gallant defenders of our country, by land and sea, whose bravery and devotion has preserved us from the unspeakable calamities of a German invasion. It would assure, more especially, the many thousands of our sons in the Imperial services that they are never forgotten by us, and that prayer is offered for them unceasingly. To all who are sick and wounded, or who are prisoners of war, as also to all mourning those who have given their lives for their country, it desires to convey the assurance of its profound sympathy, and it commends them to the loving care of our Father in Heaven, and the gracious ministrations of the Divine Comforter.

The Assembly would affectionately urge on all the members of our Church at this time of profound anxiety and strain to continue constant in prayer to Almighty God that in His great mercy He would speedily grant to us and our Allies victory in this tremendous struggle, and especially that He would so discipline and purify the nation by the chastening experiences through which it is passing, that the restoration of peace may prove rich in blessing, to the glory of God and the promotion of His kingdom.

Rev. William Park, D.D., seconded the resolution, which was passed by acclamation.

On the suggestion of the Rev. Dr. Hamill, and with the approval of the Assembly, the Moderator despatched the following telegram to the King:—

General Assembly Presbyterian Church, Ireland, at its opening session in Belfast, assures the King of their continued loyalty and devotion of all the members of the Church, and their resolute determination to support His Majesty in every effort to bring the war to a quick and successful termination.

Those present then rose and sang the National Anthem.

The Assembly adjourned until to-morrow.

DIOCESAN INTERMEDIATE AND COMMERCIAL SCHOOL.

A meeting of the Committee of Management was held at the school yesterday, at 2 p.m., the Rev. Canon Hayes, M.A., in the chair. There were also present—Rev. Canon Day, M.A., and Rev. A. E. DUBLIN CORPORATION.

LORD MAYOR AND THE REBELLION.

A monthly meeting of the Dublin Corporation was held yesterday in the City Hall for the discharge of its ordinary business. The business on the agenda comprised that for the month of May, its monthly meeting having been passed over owing to the trouble caused by the rebellion.

The Lord Mayor (Mr. J. M. Gallagher) presided.

VOTES OF CONDOLENCE.

On the motion of Alderman Dinnage, seconded by Mr. Cummins, and supported by Mr. Monks and Mr. Beattie, the Council passed a vote of condolence to the relatives of the late Mr. John Thornton, a member of the Council.

On the motion of Mr. Higgins, seconded by Sir P. Shortall, and supported by Mr. Kelly and Mr. Dillon, a vote of condolence was passed to the relatives of the late Mr. Richard O'Carroll, a member of the Council, who died as the result of a gun-shot wound received during the rebellion.

On the motion of Alderman O'Connor, seconded by Mr. Farrell, a vote of condolence was passed to Sir Thomas Esmonde, M.P., on the death of his son, which took place on H.M.S. Invincible.

Mr. O'Beirne said he thought the Council ought to record its sympathy with the relatives of those Dublin citizens who had lost their lives during the recent rebellion. They had been accidentally killed; they were well-known citizens, and useful members of the community. (Hear, hear.) He moved that the Council expresses its regret at their death, and its sympathy with their relatives.

Mr. Lennon seconded, and the motion was passed.

GALLANTRY RECOGNISED.

On behalf of the Carnegie Hero Fund, the Lord Mayor presented to Master Edward Wm. Hill, of Rathmines, a watch in recognition of his courage and gallantry in rescuing William Henry, aged ten years, from drowning in the canal near Parnell Bridge on the 25th January last.

LORD MAYOR AND THE REBELLION.

The Lord Mayor said that since the recent catastrophe which had fallen upon the city, and amidst the many causes for indignation and regret, they had at least one great cause for satisfaction, namely, that the steadiness of public opinion and conduct had enabled them to get back to normal conditions, if not as quickly as could be desired, at any rate as speedily as was possible under the terrible circumstances. (Hear, hear.) The awful calamity of rebellion fell upon the city like a thunderbolt. It was not for him to say whether the responsibility for unprecedented and almost incredible inaction fell upon the shoulders of the Irish Executive. The Government through its officials had told its story, which he left to speak for itself. He made no comment with reference to it. That was the duty of others. But what he felt to be his duty was to give a public expression of his thanks to his colleagues, to the Corporation officials, to the prominent citizens, and the public generally, for the great assistance and encouragement extended to him during the terrible crisis. He was proud to say that the citizens of Dublin displayed a quiet patience and an undaunted confidence that were creditable to their city in an unusual degree. Their city to-day presented as sad and heart-rending a spectacle as could be found on the Continent of Europe. (Hear, hear.) The financial aspect of that ruin called for the best consideration from the Corporation. The ratable valuation of the premises destroyed had been estimated at some £33,000. That meant that their municipal income for the present year would be some £16,000 less than they had estimated for. Before the rebellion there was need for economy. Now the need had become more imperative than ever. It was his intention to propose that where any office upon their staff, not being a statutory one, had become vacant owing to death or other causes arising out of the rebellion, such office should not be filled during the present year. (Hear, hear.) The question of compensating property owners whose property was destroyed as a result of the rebellion was brought before the Government without delay by other people. While it could not be said that arrangements satisfactory to all parties had been yet settled, it was a matter for congratulation that the Government had accepted the principle that compensation must be provided by the State. (Hear, hear.) A question of the most pressing importance was that of the rehabilitation of their city. (Hear, hear.) They had now a unique opportunity to apply to the rebuilding of the demolished areas all those modern schemes of town-planning which architectural science had adopted. They had now a chance of beautifying the very heart of their city, and of removing disabilities which time and vested interests had hitherto made impossible. The Government had blown down the centre and most beautiful part of their city.

DUTY OF THE GOVERNMENT.

It was the duty of the Government to restore it. (Hear, hear.) If the Government refused to discharge their duty in this respect the Irish people should have to write it down as another example of English disregard for Irish interests. (Hear, hear.) The powers at present vested in the Corporation under the Public Health Acts and under the Housing of the Working Classes Acts were totally inadequate to enable them to cope with the present situation. After consultation with the Town Clerk and the Law Agent he had submitted to the Under-Secretary a draft bill embodying proposals for giving the Corporation those powers and rights to enable them to deal with the restoration of the city. This bill provided for enlarging the powers given them under existing statutes, both for the purpose of taking over property and of advancing money in connection with the rebuilding thereof, and also for raising loans. Shortly, it provided that the Government shall advance such money by way of grant as might be necessary to rebuild the demolished areas in accordance with a scheme or schemes approved by the Council; that the Government, if they so desired, might, during a period of five years or such lesser period as they thought fit, entrust the powers contained in the bill to a Committee, consisting of the Lord Mayor for the time being, two members nominated by the Council, and four nominated by the Government; that thereafter all the powers contained in the bill should vest in the Council, who should thenceforward be alone responsible for the exercise of these powers. He considered that it contained the absolute minimum which was necessary to enable the Council to discharge its duty to the citizens. (Hear, hear.) If they were driven to what he considered the unfair alternative of a loan instead of a grant they should at least be under no liability for a period of five years, at the end of which period he assumed the restoration of the city would be completed. These matters were under careful consideration. He had opened a fund for the relief of distress in Dublin, and it had reached £5,000. The citizens owed a deep debt of gratitude to Mr. John McCormack, their famous tenor, and Cardinal Farley, who contributed £1,650 as the result of a concert held in New York. (Applause.) He hoped that out of the darkness and calamity that had come upon them would emerge a condition of things which would be a guarantee for all time of peace and good-feeling amongst all Irishmen. (Applause.)

GLASNEVIN WARD VACANCY.

It was decided to convene a special meeting of the Council to co-opt a councillor for Glasnevin Ward in room of the late Mr. John Thornton.

ALDERMAN THOMAS KELLY'S ABSENCE.

In moving a report of the Housing Committee re the Engineering Staff, Mr. Briscoe said he regretted the absence of the Chairman, Alderman Thomas Kelly, who had been arrested and deported. (Hear, hear.) The Committee had passed a resolution pointing out to Sir John Maxwell what an invaluable member of the Housing Committee Alderman Kelly was, but no reply had been received. They all desired the speedy release of Alderman Kelly. (Hear, hear.)

The Lord Mayor said everything possible was being done to secure the release of the Alderman.

Mr. Gately seconded the motion, and Mr. L. Sherlock, supporting a suggestion to send back the report, said they should ascertain if the orders of the Council with reference to getting rid of two engineers had been carried out.

The report was referred back to the Committee.

USELESS NOTICES.

Mr. Beattie moved that no notice of motion should be allowed to appear upon the notice paper until it has been decided by the Lord Mayor, on the advice of the Town Clerk and Law Agent, that it is in order. He said that many ridiculous and absurd motions appeared on the agenda, which meant expense, and without serving any useful public purpose.

After discussing the matter, the motion was rejected by 21 to 12.

TAXATION AND HOUSING.

On the motion of Alderman Alfred Byrne, M.P., a resolution was passed requesting the Treasury to ear-mark £30,000 of Dublin money, the result of the increased valuation of Dublin (income tax) for the building of houses for the working-classes in the city.

It was also resolved, on the motion of Alderman Byrne, that the old age pensions should be increased from 5s. to 7s. 6d. a week, having regard to the increased cost of living, and that age qualification be reduced from 70 years to 65 years.

Alderman Byrne moved that a war bonus of 3s. a week be granted to officers in the service of the Council whose annual salary does not exceed £100.

Mr. Reigh said that the motion should not be passed until they knew what it was going to cost.

The Lord Mayor said this was not the time to increase anybody's salary.

Alderman McCarthy seconded Mr. Reigh's amendment to postpone the matter until information was obtained as to how much it would cost.

On a division the amendment was defeated, and the original motion was carried.

The Lord Mayor said it was a shame to ask the Council to pass such a motion as this without knowing what it would cost. They were giving away the people's money every time without considering the justice of the case.

The Council finished the agenda.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

WOMEN AND WAR WORK.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—When "The Princess"—"the herald-melody of the higher education of women"—was published in 1847 it must have seemed impossible that there could ever be sweet girl-graduates; but now we are to behold Tennyson's "daughters of the plough, stronger than men, Huge women, blowzed with health, and wind, and rain, And labour."

In the Life of Richard Monckton Milnes, first Lord Houghton, there is a letter written by Mrs. Proctor on September 20th, 1862, in which she says: "Mrs. Fanny Kemble is here. Should you encounter her, do not speak of America; she cried so terribly on Thursday, upon my husband speaking of the subject. She says the women are working during the night at the harvest, the men all gone as soldiers, and the heat being too great to work during the day." This spring girls have been harrowing; the next step will be ploughing. A farmer thought it was "dreadful" when a returned soldier told him that women are ploughing in France. Last summer I saw a man tramming a field of hay, and later on hand-stacking a field of corn, all by himself. It had a lonesome look, all silent and solitary; he did not sing like Wordsworth's reaper.

Writing from Dublin in 1831, Mr. Monckton Milnes said: "This city pleases me. I think it is as handsome as any built of brick can be, and the public buildings are in excellent taste. . . The Bishop of Kildare asked me to dinner the day I arrived, yesterday; a very agreeable party. I sat by a Lady Campbell, daughter of the Lord Edward Fitzgerald and Madame de Genlis' Pamela, one of the cleverest creatures I ever saw. Moore has just published her father's life, and I began talking of it without knowing who she was, but luckily very encomiastically, so we got on very well." She was Mr. George Wyndham's grandmother.—Yours, etc.,

A COMPLAINT.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—Is it possible to control the young hooligan element in this city? I have complained to the police over and over again with reference to these young vagrants who collect in Jervis street, Stafford street, and Abbey street every afternoon and evening. Respectable poor people cannot sit in St. Mary's Churchyard, although every provision has been made for their comfort. They are pelted with brickbats. The tenement houses at the south end of St. Mary's Churchyard have been demolished, and the boundary wall has been practically thrown down by these lads. They use the loose material and have their battles in the street, to the danger of the passers-by and those who have business in the neighbourhood.

I write this letter in order that the matter may have publicity, and then something may be done.—Yours, etc.,

CHURCH OF IRELAND.

The Archbishop of Dublin has conferred the Canonry in Christ Church Cathedral, vacated by the Rev. Canon Mahaffy, upon the Rev. Herbert B. Kennedy, B.D., Incumbent of the Mariners' Church, Kingstown, who will be installed in that dignity on Friday next at Morning Service in the Cathedral.

The Bishop of Tuam has appointed the Rev. Canon Thomas Allen, M.A., Rector of Killoran and Canon of St. Patrick's Cathedral, to be Dean of the Cathedral Church of St. Nathy, Achonry.

THE LATE ARCHBISHOP PEACOCKE.

Rev. Canon Dowse, preaching in Christ Church Cathedral on Sunday, took his text from II. Tim., iv. 7 and 8: "I have fought the good fight, I have finished the course, I have kept the faith: Henceforth there is laid up for me the Crown of Righteousness, which the Lord, the Righteous Judge, will give to me at that day; and not ought me, but to all them also that have loved His appearing." In the course of his sermon he said:—"I am not, I think, in any degree overstepping the limits of truth when I apply to the late Archbishop Peacocke the words of my text. Those who knew him will gladly bear testimony to the fact that he 'fought the good fight,' that he 'finished the course,' that he 'kept the faith.' He was a man of sterling qualities—upright, just, and true as steel. What we know as 'the Old Gospel' was unspeakably dear to him. He loved it with his whole soul, and it was his joy to proclaim it. He had no fancy for those 'doctrines fashioned to the varying hour,' or advanced views which prove captivating to so many. He knew the Lord Jesus Christ as personal friend and Saviour, and that knowledge satisfied his heart and beautified his life. He loved his Bible, and believed it through and through; and because of this faith and personal knowledge he was a man of deep missionary sympathies. It was my privilege to succeed him as Rector of Monkstown Parish twenty-two years ago, and I can testify to this, that the impulse and direction given to missionary thought and interest by him have endured throughout those years, and have been productive of blessed and abiding results. I do not think that missions to Jews or Gentiles ever had truer friend than Archbishop Peacocke. In addition—and this was one of his characteristics which impressed all who knew him—he was a man of principle, high, strong, unwavering Christian principle. Cautious he certainly was, but it was a caution born of principle. He was not one to be swayed by every wind of doctrine or influenced by the passing breath of emotion. He saw his goal clearly, and went straight for it. And that goal was the glory of God, the honour of Christ, and the advancement of the Truth as he understood it and knew it. Moreover, he was a man of prayer; otherwise he could not have been what he was, or have done what he did. All his ministry—as pastor and as Bishop—was carried out in a spirit of calm and assured reliance upon God. He was inspired by a strong faith and an undimmed hope, because he had learned to commit all to Him who judgeth righteously. His administration of the affairs of the United Diocese for a period of nineteen years was conspicuously fair and just, and marked by intimate knowledge of the various parishes and of the various details of the work. His clergy had in him a faithful friend and a true Father in God. He is gone to his rest and his reward. But

'He has left, deposited upon the silent shores of memory,
Images and precious thoughts,
Which shall not die, and cannot be destroyed.'"

DERRY AND ITS NEW BISHOP.

On the occasion of his first sermon since his consecration, the Right Rev. J. Irvine Peacocke, Bishop of Derry and Raphoe, was presented with an address of welcome by the clergy, churchwardens, and select vestry of Christ Church, Londonderry, on Sunday. His Lordship thanked the clergy, churchwardens, and select vestry for their most cordial welcome and good wishes.

THE LAW COURTS.

SEQUEL TO MATRIMONIAL PETITION.

The arguments in an interesting matrimonial case were resumed and concluded yesterday in the Court of Appeal, before the Lord Chancellor, Lord Justice Ronan, and Lord Justice Molony. On 17th February, 1909, Mary Ann McDonnell, of Toomevara, Co. Tipperary, was married to Timothy Price, farmer, of Killea, Templemore. The marriage had never been consummated, and on 11th May, 1915, on the petition of Mrs. Price, a decree of nullity was pronounced. The sum of £475 had been paid to Timothy Price as his wife's fortune. On 2nd February, 1915, Mrs. Price instituted the present proceedings, claiming a return of her fortune. The writ was just within the Statute of Limitations, and when the action came on for trial at the Clonmel Assizes it was contended for the defendant that it had been prematurely brought, and should not have been instituted until after the nullity proceedings. Defendant also pleaded that the money was a gift to him by the plaintiff, and for good and valuable consideration. The defendant possessed a farm which was subject to a charge under a will of £400 in favour of one of his sisters, and he alleged that there was an arrangement between the parties that £400 of plaintiff's fortune should be applied in redeeming that charge. The King's Bench Division (consisting of Mr. Justice Madden, Mr. Justice Boyd, and Mr. Justice Dodd), before whom the case came up on appeal from a dismiss at the Assizes, held that the plaintiff was entitled to a declaration that she should stand in the place of the owner of the charge of £400 paid off by her money, and that the charge was a good and valid charge upon the farm. The Court also held with regard to the sum of £75 paid by the plaintiff to the defendant, and apparently spent by him, while the plaintiff lived with him as his wife, that that could not be recovered. Against this decision the defendant appealed.

Judgment was reserved.

Counsel for the plaintiff—Mr. Serjeant Sullivan, Mr. Gibson, K.C., and Mr. Swayne (instructed by Mr. L. J. Ryan).

For the defendant—Mr. Samuels, K.C., and Mr. Mark Cooper (instructed by Mr. A. H. Morgan).

SALE OF THE MACGILLYCUDDY ESTATE.

Yesterday in the Land Judge's Court, Dublin, before Mr. Justice Ross, in the matter of the MacGillycuddy Estate, situated near Killarney, County Kerry, an application was made on behalf of the National Mutual Life Assurance Society, mortgagees of the life estate of the owner, for an order rescinding an order of the 27th June, 1904, so far as it gave the owner liberty to negotiate the sale of the estate, directing the receiver, Mr. Robert McClure, to undertake to negotiate for the sale of the residue of the estate, setting aside the purchase agreements entered into by three tenants, one named Foley and two named Casey, and directing the Receiver to collect the arrears of rent due by them in respect of their holdings, and transferring the carriage to the Insurance Society.

It appeared that purchase agreements to the extent of over £23,000 had been already lodged with the Land Commission, and that there were twenty tenancies still outstanding. In 1904 an order was made by Mr. Justice Ross giving The MacGillycuddy liberty to negotiate the sale of the estate to the tenants. Early in the present year the Receiver issued writs against the three tenants mentioned for the recovery of the arrears of rent; and afterwards the owner entered into purchase agreements with the three tenants undertaking to wipe off all their arrears with the exception of one-half year's rent in each case. The Receiver having thereupon applied to the Court for directions Mr. Justice Ross adjourned the matter to enable the Insurance Society to consider it, and take such steps as they might be advised.

The MacGillycuddy having explained the circumstances of the estate and the proceedings that had been taken,

Mr. Justice Ross said it was as plain as daylight that the purchase agreements, so far as they interfered with the collection of the rents, could not be allowed to stand. He adjourned the matter for a fortnight to enable the tenants' solicitor to furnish particulars of the agreements and the amounts of arrears to the Receiver, with the view of seeing if an arrangement could be come to as to how much the tenants were reasonably able to pay in respect of arrears.

Mr. Conner, K.C. (instructed by Messrs. William Fry and Sons), appeared for the Insurance Society; Mr. Herbert Wilson, K.C. (instructed by Messrs. Baker, Ringwood, and Gordon), for the MacGillycuddy; and Mr. Roche (instructed by Mr. McCartie) for two of the tenants.

IRISH M.P.'S ESTATE.

Yesterday in the Chancery Division, Dublin, before the Master of the Rolls, in the matter of the estate of E. P. O'Kelly, deceased, Burke v. Whelan,

Mr. Blood, K.C. (instructed by Messrs. Wm. Findlater and Co.), applied on behalf of the plaintiffs, Thos. Burke and others, trading as Thomas J. Costello and Co., Dublin, for an order that the licensed premises at Baltinglass, Co. Wicklow, the property of the late Mr. E. P. O'Kelly, M.P., and other property, be sold, or, in the alternative, that a receiver be appointed; and also for directions in relation to two writs of execution lodged with the Sheriff of the County Wicklow against Edward John O'Kelly (son and devisee under the will of the deceased) by the Dublin General Steamship Co., Ltd., and William H. Redhouse. It appeared that an order for the administration of the real and personal estate has already been made. Since the death of the deceased in July, 1914, the business of licensed vintner and grocer which he had conducted at Baltinglass has been carried on by his son, E. J. O'Kelly.

The Master of the Rolls made an order appointing Mr. Frederick J. Harris, accountant, of Dublin, manager of the licensed business at Baltinglass, and also appointing him receiver over the other premises. His lordship further directed the Dublin General Steamship Co., Ltd., and William H. Redhouse, creditors of E. J. O'Kelly, to withdraw their execution, saving their rights as creditors, whether as against the goods of E. J. O'Kelly or against the estate of the deceased. His lordship said that as soon as the manager saw a favourable time for putting up the premises for sale it would be the duty of the executors to come forward with an application.

Mr. Overend (instructed by Messrs. Brown and M'Cann) appeared for the defendants, the executors; Mr. William M'Grath (instructed by Mr. Daniel P. Blayney) for Mr. E. J. O'Kelly; Mr. Andrews (instructed by Messrs. Hone and Falkiner) for the Dublin General Steamship Co.; and Mr. John Moran, solicitor, for Mr. Redhouse.

PROBATE OF SOLDIER'S WILL.

In the Probate Court, Dublin, yesterday, before Mr. Justice Madden, an application for probate of a lost will was made in the matter of the goods of James N. McHolme, formerly a jeweller in Castlebar, Co. Mayo, who enlisted in the 5th Battalion Connaught Rangers, and was killed at Gallipoli in August, 1915.

Mr. Fitzgerald Kenny, who made the application on behalf of the executor, Rev. F. A. Hanna, Methodist minister, stated that the will was made on board the Mauretania while the testator was on the way to the Dardanelles. It was drawn up by Patrick Tamsey, a young man from the same town, who had been a solicitor's clerk, and who had also joined the Army. The will, which was dated 17th July, 1915, was given to Robert Clarke, a waiter on board the ship, who posted it in Liverpool in August, 1915. It was addressed to the executor, but did not reach him. The assets consisted of the jewellery business and about £200.

The Court granted the application.

CHARITY DRAMATIC PERFORMANCES.

Two plays, both produced for the first time in Dublin, were given in the Gaiety Theatre yesterday afternoon in aid of the Irish War Hospital Supply Dépôt and the Soldiers' and Sailors' Families Association (Nursing Branch). In spite of laudatory descriptions, Rudolf Besier's three-act comedy, "Lady Patricia," proved disappointing beyond words, so that even the most indulgent could not but regard it as boring as a whole. It is certainly relieved here and there by amusing phrases and entertaining situations, especially in the third act, when the Dean and Mrs. O'Farrel, his old friend, concealed in the summer house, observe the course of the "spiritual" friendships between Clare, the Dean's daughter, and Michael Cosway, and Bill O'Farrel and Lady Patricia Cosway. The atmosphere and vocabulary of æsthetic sentimentality attributed to the character of Lady Patricia puts a blight on the whole play, and can only be dovetailed into the lady's worldly wisdom by the admission of hypocrisy. As a consequence, the piece misses its aim of comedy; nor is it dramatic. One has to find consolation in its minor jeu d'esprit. Generally speaking, the piece was well acted, and the good acting made it tolerable. Miss Elizabeth Young made the most possible of the character of Lady Patricia, but, at the best, it could be only farcical. Miss Dorothy Casey is to be complimented on her capable, self-reliant study of Mrs. O'Farrel, while Mr. J. S. M. Carré's presentation of the part of the Dean was thoroughly sound and well finished. Judge Brereton Barry gave excellent comic relief in his impersonation of the ubiquitous gardener, though, like Mr. G. H. Fitzgerald, as Ellis, he was not happy in his conception of English dialect. Mr. R. B. Barry was natural and boyish in the part of Bill O'Farrel. Miss Claire Russell took the part of Clare Lesley capably, and Mr. Earle Grey was at home in that of Michael Cosway.

J. M. Barrie's play, "Half-an-Hour," was much more acceptable, being well knit in its dramatic construction. It is the story of a wife who goes to her lover, to fly with him to Egypt. He goes to get a cab, and is crushed to death by a motor 'bus. A doctor informs the wife of the accident, and gets her to leave her lover's house. In half-an-hour he meets her back in her own house, and then there follows a fascinating match of wits. The doctor relates the incident to the company, recognises the woman, but conceals his knowledge of her, and shows her her duty by his references to the unknown woman. The husband's suspicions arise and disperse, and his wife's admission that she is unknown appears as a joke, while the play closes with a glance of understanding between the wife and the doctor of the path to be trodden in duty. Miss Elizabeth Young played with remarkable power in the part of the woman, Lady Lilian Garson, especially in the last of the three scenes, where she has to make verbal fence with her husband, with the doctor, and with two guests eager for scandal. Miss Young gave a skilful idea of passion concealed under the discussion of a mere incident, and her triumph was marked in the last scene. Judge Brereton Barry was inclined to be rather too brutal, but, nevertheless, gave a good impression of a bad husband. Mr. Earle Grey, in the part of Dr. Brodie, showed considerable improvement on recent performances. He played more quietly and confidently, and is learning that the function of art is to conceal art. Dr. J. B. Magennis made the part of Hugh Paton, the lover, absurdly tragic, and consequently futile. Rhapsody is all very well, but not for daily use in the home. The other characters were sustained as follows:—Mr. and Mrs. Redding, Mr. G. H. Fitzgerald and Miss D. Casey; Susie, Miss C. Russell; Withers, Mr. W. H. Orpen.

MR. OCTAVUS HARDY.

Mr. Octavus Hardy, of 17, Belgrave road, Rathmines, was arrested at that address in connection with the recent rising in Dublin. He was released soon afterwards, and he has now received a communication from the War Office enclosing an extract from a statement from General Headquarters at Dublin. This statement says:—"It was made clear that Mr. Hardy was a thoroughly loyal subject, and that his arrest was merely one of the unfortunate incidents which are bound to arise in the course of such military operations as those which took place in the Dublin area."

Your Feelings and Spirits

(Mark X) (Preserve This)

SIGNALS OF DANGER.

These are some of the ways in which Nature warns you that it needs assistance in its work, or that the damage caused by violent, weakening medicines must be repaired. They mean that your health is not as good as it should be, and if the trouble is allowed to continue it may prepare the way for much more serious illness. It is time to set yourself right. But do not go about it violently. Take the gentle medicine which gives Nature the assistance it welcomes.

	Dull Brain: "Can't think"
	Inattention: Unable to concentrate
	Despondency
	Irritable and fretful
	Outbursts of anger
	Heavy feeling
	Tired feeling
	Nerves "on edge"
	Dizziness
	Sinking feeling
	Spots before the eyes
	Singing in the ears
	Languor

If Nature has given you any of these warnings it means your health is not as good as it should be, and that if allowed to continue the trouble may grow more serious. Set yourself right gently by taking

Cockle's Pills

Cockle's Pills contain nothing irritating or injurious or weakening. Your system does not become habituated to them. You do not have to increase the size and frequency of the dose. That is why they are worth more than ordinary pills.

MUSIC IN THE TRENCHES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—Adverting to my letter of the 17th January last, it may interest your readers to learn that I have been able to send two bands to the 2nd Battalion of the Royal Irish Rifles at the front, viz.—A fife and drum band and an Irish pipes band, the latter being the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Workman, in memory of their son, the late Lieutenant Edward Workman, of the 5th, attached to the 2nd Battalion, Royal Irish Rifles, who died on the 19th January last from wounds received in France.

All the instruments were supplied by Messrs. George Butler and Sons, Monument House, Dublin. It is interesting to know that the pipes were being finished on the above firm's premises on Easter Tuesday, but, matters getting hot at the corner of Bachelor's Walk, where the premises are situated, the firm closed down at noon. On entering his warehouse after the rebellion Mr. Butler fortunately found the pipes uninjured either by the artillery or the machine gun fire with which the premises were riddled. The band has gone to France after receiving its baptism of fire. That it escaped unscathed is a good omen, it is hoped, for the pipers of the Royal Irish Rifles.

The following subscriptions are acknowledged with thanks:—

OUR IRISH PRISONERS AT RUHLEBEN, GERMANY.

Mrs. Porter, 10 Vernon parade, Clontarf, still sends parcels of food to our poor countrymen in Germany (who have no one to send them parcels), and she would be very glad of gifts to help. As the food gets steadily worse, and scarcer, only for food from home these men would miserably starve. Anyone wishing to send direct can have full particulars from Mrs. Porter.

FINANCIAL NEWS

DUBLIN STOCK EXCHANGE.

GENERAL STRENGTH. GUINNESS ORD., DUBLIN DISTILLERS PREF., AND MARCONIS PARTICULARLY GOOD.

DUBLIN, MONDAY.

There was distinct firmness about the Dublin Stock and Share Markets to-day, and important changes in favour of holders were established, even if the volume of dealing remains limited. Considerable significance might reasonably be attached to this brighter aspect of the Stock markets, even from a local standpoint. Breweries and Distilleries were again very favourably disposed. Guinness Ord. moved up ¾ to 24¾ for exceptional lots. Dublin Distillers Pref. were very strong, but after opening another 5s. higher at 65s., eased back to 63s. buyers. The Ord. remain 10s., and Castlebellingham and Drogheda Ord. repeated 21s. As regards Grand Canal Ord. Shares, the price rose 5s. to 85. The Marconi market developed pronounced strength. The Ord. rose 3s. 6d. to 47s. 6d., and the Pref. having opened 1s. 3d. better at 39s. closed 40s. buyers. Dunlop issues were firm, with the Def. 1½d. higher at 21s. 9d. Very lively satisfaction was expressed on all sides at the honour of a Baronetcy conferred by His Majesty on Mr. Arthur P. Du Cros, M.P., managing director and acting Chairman of the Dunlop Companies. Drapery Shares were steady. Henry Street Warehouse Shares were firmer at last price on the appointment of Mr. Tallon to a seat on the Board. Textiles were very firm and hard all day, with Manchester and Glasgow orders about, Coats and Cottons being most sought for.

LONDON MONEY MARKET.

Bank Rate (changed August 8, 1914).... 5 p.c.

There was a plentiful supply of short credits in the Loan Market, and day-to-day money was obtainable at 3½ to 4 per cent., with weekly fixtures around the latter figure. The appearance of the Discount Market was quiet, and unchanged. There was more doing in short-dated Treasury Bills in the open market, but rates ruled rather firmer. The Bank of England transacted a fair business in all three forms of short term Government Securities now offering—viz., Treasury Bills, Exchequer Bonds and War Expenditure Certificates. The New York Exchange kept around 4.76 to 4.76⅛.

Silver was stronger, the quotation for spot bars rising ⅛d. to 31½d. per oz., support coming mainly from Indian "Bear" speculators, who were closing their accounts.

The Bank of England announced that £250,000 in sovereigns had been released from miscellaneous accounts, and £50,000 from Egyptian account.

LONDON MINING MARKET.

Business in Mines was not large, but the tone of the leading sections was mostly good. Kaffirs worked forward here and there, Finance Shares and the Far Eastern group being spottily good. Rhodesians also kept on the firm side, but Diamonds showed no pronounced tendency either way. Westralians ruled steady to dull, and base metal descriptions displayed no very settled tendency. The price of copper metal rose 20/-, but the price of tin fell 40/- per ton.

Net changes among Kaffirs were mixed. Rand Mines were good, rising 1/9 to 70/-, but Goldfields fell 6d., and "Generals" lost the turn. Modderfonteins, among Gold Shares, were barely steady at 11⅞. Meyer and Charltons, however, advanced to 5½. Small gains predominated in the general list. De Beers among Diamond Shares, rose ⅛ to 10¼. Jagersfonteins, however, were 9d. easier at 4/-. As regards Rhodesians, Chartereds further rose to 12/3. Tanks gained the turn. Kalgurlis, among Westralians, put on 1/3, at 12/6.

NORTH SEA BATTLE IN ITS TRUE LIGHT.

(FROM OUR FINANCIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

LONDON, MONDAY.

The latest official news regarding the North Sea battle imparted a much better tone to the Stock markets than was in evidence on Saturday. Prices tended forward, but there was not much business. As disappointment prior to the week-end failed to precipitate any important selling, so to-day's feeling of relief and cheerfulness did not bring in much buying, mainly because the fresh official news was published too late for orders to pile up in response over the week-end. The gilt-edged market hardened at first, but finally showed little net change.

Fractional gains of ⅛ were in a majority in the Colonial list. Canada Fours put on ⅜ at 85. New Zealand New Fours were up to 81.

FOREIGN BONDS STEADY.

In the Foreign market Russians showed to advantage. The Fives added ½ at 85, and the Fours at 70¼ were ¾ to the good. Spanish Bonds were rather heavy on Paris advices and the deficit shown by the Spanish Budget. The French Loan was steady around 85 for the big bonds, while the small bonds were dealt in over 86. There were several gains of ⅛ to ½ in the Argentine and Brazilian groups. Brazilian Funding Fives, at 78, were ¼ up. Peruvians made no response to a traffic increase of 89,734 soles for May. Cuban Bonds showed renewed activity, the 5 p.c. Bonds closing at 102¼, after being higher, while the 4½ p.c., at 88¼, were finally ¼ under best.

In the Home Railway market several of the Trunk and Trade Stocks showed gains averaging ¼. Among Prior Charge Stocks there was not a great deal doing. Midland 2½ p.c. Pref. kept cheerfully in advance of 50, while the 2½ p.c. Debs. closed firmly at 53¼, and Great Northern 3 p.c. Debs. at 63. AMERICAN RAILS STEADY.

Americans were on the firm side, though there was little doing locally. Wall street attention is still centring mainly upon Industrial issues, the rumours of an automobile combine causing a big rise in that group. Norfolks were busy in the Railroad list, rising 4½ to 140, but the rise was little more than a reflection of the Wall street movement. There were mixed changes of ⅛ to ½ elsewhere, but gains predominated. Steel Pref., at 123¼, was ⅜ up.

CANADIAN AND FOREIGN RAILS.

Canadian Pacifics fell a dollar to 182¾. The stock was dealt in about twenty times. Grand Trunk issues were dull, concluding with one or two falls of ⅛.

Mexican Rails remained completely neglected. Several Argentine Rails gained small fractions, though changes were not uniformly favourable. Central Uruguays, at 56¾, were a point up. Antofagasta Def. gained ½ at 128.

DIVIDENDS, REPORTS, AND MEETINGS.

A SUCCESSFUL MILLING CONCERN.—The directors' report and statement of accounts of White, Tomkins, and Courage, Ltd., of Belfast, London, Liverpool, and Boston, for the past year must afford pleasant reading for the shareholders of this firm. They disclose a steady and continuous flow of the tide of prosperity, and we heartily congratulate the management and all concerned on the wonderful achievement. The annual meeting of the company will be held on 14th inst., at the Cannon street Hotel, London, when the directors will recommend a dividend at the rate of 10 per cent. This distribution constitutes a record; last year the rate was 7 per cent. We give below a statement showing the profits available for distribution during the past five years, which, no doubt, will be of interest:—Year ending 31st January, 1912, £36,693 3/9; 14 months ending 31st January, 1913, £47,427 10/2; year ending 31st January, 1914, £48,920 16/6; year ending 31st January, 1915, £56,086 18/6; year ending 31st January, 1916, £67,853 1/-. In 1912 the reserve account stood at £15,000; it is now £70,000.

OFFILERS BREWERY.—Interim dividend at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum, less tax.

CARRERAS.—Interim dividend at the rate of 8 per cent. per annum, less tax.

BRAUNSTON (MALAY) RUBBER ESTATES.—Interim dividend of 10 per cent.

KALGURLI GOLD.—An interim dividend of 2/6 per share, less tax, payable 6th July.

THE LENDU RUBBER COMPANY, LTD.—Further dividend of 6½ per cent., free of income tax.

BARTHOLOMAY BREWING.—An interim dividend of 4 per cent. (8/- per share) on the Pref. Shares, payable 1st July.

BROWN BROTHERS.—Dividend of 5/- per share, less tax, on the Preference Shares, on account of arrears.

STRAITS (BERTAM) RUBBER.—A final dividend of 15 per cent. actual, less tax at 3/- in the £, payable about 5th July.

J. C. AND J. FIELD.—Dividend of 5 per cent. on the Ord. Shares, less tax, placing to reserve fund £3,000, redeeming funding bonds to the extent of £3,000, and carrying forward £3,314.

ASSOCIATED NEWSPAPERS.—Dividend of 8 per cent. on the Deferred Shares for the half-year, making 12 per cent. for the year; £3,000 to pension fund; £6,753 forward.

RUPAJULI TEA.—An interim dividend of 7½ per cent., less tax, was paid in December, and the directors now propose a final dividend of 22½ per cent., less tax, and to carry forward £1,830.

FUTTICKCHERRIE TEA.—It is proposed to pay a dividend of 10 per cent., less tax, and to carry forward (subject to excess profits duty) £740.

PAGE AND OVERTON'S BREWERY.—The directors have decided to defer the consideration of the payment of the half-yearly dividend on the Five per Cent. Preference Shares until the annual general meeting of the company.

LANKAPARA TEA.—It is proposed to pay a final dividend of 22½ per cent., making 30 per cent. for the year, and a bonus of 4/- per share, and to carry forward, subject to excess profits tax, £2,666.

DARJEELING CONSOLIDATED TEA.—The directors recommend a dividend of 10 per cent., less income tax, and the transfer of £1,000 to the reserve fund, leaving £3,879 to be carried forward. For each of the two preceding years 7½ per cent., free of tax, was paid.

DOOARS TEA.—An unprecedentedly large profit has to be recorded, amounting to £115,994, and £12,382 was brought forward, making £128,376, from which has to be deducted the excess profits duty for 1914, £2,765, leaving £125,611. The directors propose a dividend on the Ordinary Shares of together 32½ per cent., of which 6¼ per cent. was paid on the 1st January last, leaving 26¼ per cent. to be paid. The balance of £52,111 5s. 11d. is a large one, but the excess profits duty for 1915 has to be provided.

At yesterday afternoon's meeting of the London Flour Millers' Association the price of town households was lowered 1s., and now stands at 46s.; top grades 3s. to 4s. more.

INDUSTRIAL SHARES GOOD.

Shipping Shares, though not so active as last week, scored some further good gains in places. Royal Mails advanced to 116, and P. and O. Def., though finishing under best, closed 2 up at 327. Furness Withys lost the turn at 50/-. After Saturday's pause, strong buying of Marconis was resumed, and the shares rose 1/6 to 48/3. The Pref., at 39/6, was 9d. to the good. Land Shares were quiet. Forestals weakened 6d. to 54/6, but Nigers touched 40/- in an active market. Hudson's Bays did not move. Forestals reacted 6d. to 54/6, the annual report failing to stimulate the quotation. Armaments were quiet, and Vickers shed 6d. at 36/-. Courtaulds remained active and strong in the Textile group, spurting to 101/3. Coats did not vary. Brazilian Tractions, after being higher, reacted to 62¼. Supply Shares were slow, and Lyons fell 1/- to 79/6. Home and Colonial issues were firm.

RUBBER SHARE MARKET FIRM.

The price of Plantation rubber rallied further to 2/8¼ per lb., and in the Share market the tone was exceedingly firm, although business was not on a very large scale. Anglo-Java wanted at 4/10 and Asahan at 18/4½. Bode was changing hands around 2/3, and there were buyers of Bajoe Kidoel at 37/6, Bandar Sumatra at 35/3, and Bessoeki at 16/1½. Bradwall were done at 31/-, and Batu Tiga active around 76/-. There were also many dealings in Dennistown, which finished 38/9 bid. Eastern Trust wanted at 19/-, and Emerald changing hands at 30/3. Gan Kee 3/1 bid, and Hayoep active at 19/-. Highlands wanted at 51/6, and Johore Lands at 25/7½, while Jong-Landor inquired for at 53/9. There were buyers of Labu at 7/6 and Rubber Trust at 22/3, but Sennah offered at 37/6 and Sapong at 27/6. Sialang were 66/6 bid and Sims 33/- bid, while Straits (Bertam) rose 6d. upon the dividend of 15 p.c., making 25 p.c. for the year.

GRINDING BARLEY steady; American, 45/6 ex quay; Plate, 47/- upwards landed. OATS unaltered; Plate, 32/6 upwards landed; American white clipped, 34/6 ex quay. MAIZE easier; Plate, 49/-. Estimated shipments of wheat and flour to Europe for past week, 1,485,000 quarters. Grain arrivals this week:—English and Scottish—Wheat, 3,586; barley, 211; malt, 17,472; oats, 4,830; beans, 105; peas, 50; maize, 466 quarters; flour, 22,692 sacks. Foreign—Wheat, 110,462; barley, 260; malt, 1,312; oats, 71,115; beans, 7,058; peas, 1,239; maize, 37,711 quarters; flour, 13,090 sacks.

LIVERPOOL, Monday.—Chicago and Winnipeg markets were closed on Saturday owing to the holiday, and there were consequently no disturbing influences from that quarter, but an apathetic feeling prevailed in wheat here, and, with past week's shipments to the United Kingdom again in excess of requirements, c.i.f. parcels of Manitoba gave way about 6d. to 9d. per qr. MAIZE quiet, and forward positions easier, especially for River Plate. WHEAT on the spot was quiet, and the firmness of Saturday quite disappeared. MAIZE spot parcels were in only limited request, and prices gave way 1d. to 1½d. per cental from late currencies. FLOUR attracted little attention, but late prices were nominally repeated. WHEAT CARGOES neglected. Blue stem and Walla per steamer afloat quoted 62/-, No. 1 Manitoba June 54/6, and No. 2 hard winter afloat 53/6 per qr. In parcels, No. 1 Manitoba July-August sold at 50/9 per qr. MAIZE CARGOES failed to attract attention. Parcels quiet. Yellow River Plate May-June quoted 47/-, June-July 46/9, and American mixed June 44/- per qr. WHEAT CARGOES quiet. Blue stem and Walla per steamer afloat quoted 62/-, No. 1 Manitoba June 54/-, and No. 2 hard winter afloat 52/6 per qr. In parcels, No. 1 Manitoba July-August 50/9, May-June 50/-, June-July 50/3 per qr. MAIZE CARGOES inactive, with June-July River Plate quoted 53/- per qr. Parcels neglected. River Plate May-June quoted 47/3, June-July 46/9, and American mixed June 44/- per qr. Later, c.i.f. parcels of wheat fully 1/- per qr. under Saturday, 50/3 being the quotation for July-August shipment No. 1 Manitoba.

CATTLE.

LONDON, Monday.—Larger supply of fat cattle, and trade generally slow. At the commencement of the market prices for best butchers' beasts were firm, but as the sales progressed trade became poorer, and the heavier beasts were 2d. per 8lb. cheaper on the week. Norfolk and polled Scots realised 9/- to 9/4, and the best quality shorthorns 9/-, while the larger beasts made 8/6 to 8/8 per 8lb. Irish grass-feds numbered 47, and were of very good quality, but trade was much slower, at an average rate of 8/9 per 8lb. Cows and bulls were also cheaper at 7/4 per 8lb. Average dead-weight quotations per 8lb.:—Polled Scots, first, 9/4; second, 9/-; shorthorns, first, 9/-; second, 8/6. Sheep and lambs penned in increased numbers, and trade ruled very slow all day, especially for heavy-weight sheep, which were 1d. per lb. cheaper on the week, but the choicest quality Downs maintained last week's price of 15d. per lb. Scotch sheep in slow request at 15d. to 15½d., while the small supply of Yorkshires sold at 13d. to 14d. per lb. Only a few clipped ewes on offer, which were in good demand at 12½d. per lb. Larger supply of lambs, which met a slightly slower trade at a reduction of 1d. per lb. on the week, although some of the choicest quality Downs made 18d. per lb. Quotations per 8lbs.:—Downs, first 10/-, second 9/2; cross-breds, first, 9/6; second, 9/-. Lambs, first, 11/8; second, 11/-. Numbers in the market—Cattle, 970; sheep and lambs, 4,867.

BIRKENHEAD, Monday.—The supply of stock in the Birkenhead lairages to-day comprised 800 cattle and 6,000 sheep and lambs. Trade for cattle was very slow without any quotable alteration in values for the best sorts. The demand for both sheep and lambs was good. Beef 1/- to 1/1¼, mutton 1/2, lamb 1/3 per lb. in sink. At the dressed beef section trade was slow at the following prices:—Sides, 7/8 to 7/11 per stone of 8lbs., or 11½d. to 11¾d. per lb.

GLASGOW CATTLE, Monday.—Messrs. Hegarty and Kelly had large supplies of all classes of fat cattle at Merklands to-day (Monday), with a good attendance of customers present. Trade was firm for all classes of bullocks and heifers at an advance on last week's currencies. Bulls and cows also experienced a good demand, and were quickly cleared at satisfactory prices. Irish sheep and lambs were a small show, and all classes were in keen request at high prices, the supply on offer not being sufficient for trade requirements.—(Advt.)

GLASGOW CATTLE MARKET, Monday.—Messrs. Watson and Batchelor, Limited, report moderate supplies Irish fat cattle at Merklands to-day. A dearer trade has to be quoted for all classes Irish. Lambs short of requirements, and making extreme rates.—(Advt.)

PROVISIONS.

LIVERPOOL, Monday.—BACON—The quiet feeling in the bacon market here continued unabated, Chicago being closed on Saturday owing to holiday, but live hogs were cabled partially easier; while bacon arrivals here were again large. Buyers were again indifferent, and purchased merely for their actual needs, and holders were anxious to reduce stocks, though 1/- per cwt. decline in Cumberland cut was the only quotable decline registered in prices. Irish, Danish, and Canadian was still quiet at the recent decline, the demand not having been in any way stimulated thereby. SHOULDERS ruled inactive under the same influences as bacon, and New Yorks gave way 1/- per cwt., but square cut and picnics showed no quotable alteration. HAMS attracted little attention, and prices generally favoured buyers, short cut American and ordinary brands of skinless being reduced 1/- and 2/- per cwt., respectively. LARD on the spot showed no further alteration for prime steam, but American refined was more freely offered at a further reduction of 6d. to 1/- per cwt., boxes being most affected; while there was little disposition shown by buyers to operate, even at the lower range of values. CHEESE remained quiet, but no quotable alteration took place in finest States or Canadian. BUTTER ruled firm for Danish, and steady for Irish, at late currencies. EGGS quietly steady and unaltered for all descriptions.

REFINED LARD FUTURES.—Chicago again closed owing to the holiday, but a steadier tone was apparent during the afternoon, and prices improved, closing unchanged to 1½d. per cwt. lower on the day. September sold at 70/-, July quoted 69/1½ to 69/3, and October 70/9 to 71/3 per qr.

PRICE OF FLOUR.—At a meeting of the London Millers' Association, the price of Town Households was reduced to 46/- per sack; delivered top grades 3/- to 4/- extra.

BUTTER AND EGGS.

LITTLE GREEN, June 5.—Butter market quietly steady. Moderate arrivals of eggs, and demand fair. Values about as previously quoted. A range, however, awaits to-morrow's market.

CORK BUTTER, June 5.—Firsts, 141/-; seconds, 135/-; thirds, 124/-; fresh butter, 143/- per cwt.

PRODUCE.

LONDON, Monday.—SUGAR—Market remains firm, unaltered. COFFEE—Spot goods steadily held. Futures ruled steady, with moderate inquiries. June quoted 50/-, July 50/1½; September sold 50/9, December 51/9; March quoted 52/10½. TEA—Indian auctions of 24,000 packages met brisk competition at firm rates. Pekoe sold 11½d. to 1/0¼, broken ditto 11½d. to 1/1¼, orange 1/0¼ to 1/1¼, broken orange 1/- to 1/2¼, Pekoe Souchong 11½d to 1/0¼. SPICE—Pepper market generally quiet, but steady; Singapore black July-September steamer value 7¼d., white ditto 9¼d., Muntok 10¾d. Fair Zanzibar Cloves on spot sellers 6½d. TAPIOCA remains in the same slow condition. RICE—Only small sales were effected at late rates. HEMP—Manila quiet. Receipts cabled last week 20,000 bales, against 28,000 same time last year. Estimate for next week 27,000, and the week after 19,000 bales. Fair June-August quoted £54, and coarse at £50. RUBBER—Plantation crepe spot and June sold 2/8¼ to 2/8¼, July-December and October-December 2/9¼ to 2/9½, smoked sheet spot and June 2/7½; fine hard Para spot quoted 2/7; scrappy 2/1½ value, and Caucho ball 2/1½ buyers. OILS—Linseed easier; spot pipes 35/-, barrels ditto 36/-, landed terms. Rape slow; ordinary brown naked spot 49/-; English refined barrels 51/- to 52/-. Cotton quiet; crude spot in pipes 45/-, refined pale pipes 49/3, barrels sweet 54/- to 55/-, as to make. Turpentine easier; American spirit on spot 42/3 per cwt. Petroleum maintained; American spot 1/-, and water white 1/1 per gallon. OILSEEDS—Linseed market flat; London-Calcutta spot nominally 69/6, afloat 69/6, June-July 69/6, July-August 70/-; Bombay ordinary June-July 74/-. Rapeseed dull; Toria June-July quoted 65/6, brown Cawnpore ditto 64/6. Cottonseed quiet; London-Egyptian June quoted £14 5/-, and Sakellarides loading £13 12/6 per ton. LINSEED CAKES—There is almost a total absence of demand, and in sympathy with maize and wheat values are inclined to be slightly easier. Best London made to-day offer at £12 15/- to £13, with East India seed pures quoted at £12 10/- per ton. Cotton Cakes—Egyptians are only in moderate supply as regards spot parcels and for arrival, and consequently values are fairly well maintained at £10 ex ship and £10 5/- ex quay, whilst English cakes are, if anything, the turn lower at £10 5/- to £10 10/-, with no Bombays available. Ground Nut Cakes—Nothing offers for shipment, but some small parcels in warehouse may be bought at £12 for Rufisque and £11 5/- for Coromandel. Coconut Cakes remain good value at £10 5/- to £10 10/- for best brands, with the prospect of short supplies for some time to come. Maize Germ Meal quotations are firmly held up for all descriptions. White African and American are mentioned for early shipment at £11 c.i.f., while English makes sell steadily at £11 to £11 5/-. Garton's Maize Gluten Feed is in good demand at £10 15/- per ton. RICE MEAL—Rangoon parcels afloat offer at £9 7/6 to £9 10/- ex ship terms, and there are sellers of some fine quality white Egyptian at £9 15/- ex warehouse, and second quality at £8. Dried Brewers' Grains are without change at £9 for ale and £8 15/- for mixed, while French distillers still offer at the relatively low figure of £9. Locust Beans are unaltered at £10 for whole, and £11 10/- for kibbled.

LIVERPOOL, Monday.—CANE SUGAR—The demand is limited, and supplies only moderate. The following are Messrs. Henry Tate and Sons', Ltd., quotations to-day:—Crystals—No. 1, 42/4½; small No. 1, 42/1½; No. 2, 42/1½. Granulated—Standard, 41/7½; coarse, 41/10½; fine, 42/1½. COCOA—The tone very flat, with the tendency of prices in buyers' favour. RICE—Very limited inquiry, but in absence of business prices unaltered. RICE BRAN—A poor demand. Parcels, afloat, still offer at 185/; whilst 190/- per ton is asked for July-December shipment. LINSEED—River Plate is offering at 70/6 per 416lbs. from the quay. Shippers ask 71/- for June-July, but this does not attract buyers. SAGO FLOUR—There is a quiet market all round. CASTOR OIL—Good seconds Calcutta quoted 4½d. to 5d. per lb., and there are sellers at the former figure for June-July shipments. OLIVE OIL—Spot market quiet; quotations nominal. LINSEED OIL slow at 41/6 per cwt., in barrels. COTTONSEED OIL quite idle, and 53/- to 55/- per cwt. asked. PETROLEUM—American refined unchanged.

CLYDE CRUSHED SUGAR, June 5.—Market opens firm; good business done.

LONDON METALS MARKET.

MISCELLANEOUS.

LIVERPOOL COTTON (Closing), Monday.—Sales, 7,000 bales; speculation, 1,000 bales. Futures closed steady, 5 to 8 points over Saturday's close—June, 8.19½d.; June-July, 8.15d.; July-August, 8.11d.; August-September, 8.04d.; September-October, 7.94½d.; October-November, 7.86½d.; November-December, 7.82d.; December-January, 7.79d.; January-February, 7.76½d.; February-March, 7.75½d.; March-April, 7.74½d.; April-May, 7.73½d.; May-June, 7.72½d. New York 4 to 3 advance.

WOOL.

LONDON SALES, Monday.—Catalogues comprising 7,197 bales wool were brought forward yesterday afternoon, including 2,330 vales New Zealand, 1,532 Cape and Natal, 1,251 West Australian, 1,057 New South Wales, 517 Queensland, 394 Victorian, 108 South Australian, and 18 various. Good attendance of buyers and bidding was animated, previous prices being fully maintained for all descriptions of wool.

BRADFORD, June 5.—Merino wool is fetching such a price in London that topmakers are not anxious to commit themselves to further business at present. Some are quoting such extravagant prices as 54d. for sixty-fours, but 50d. or 51d. is more like the average market price. There is not a great deal of business passing. All crossbreds, especially fine sorts, remain firm.

DUBLIN AND DISTRICT.

Killiney Council.—Mr. J. M. Coyne (vice-Chairman) presided at Killiney Council meeting last evening, when the Tullamore resolution, condemnatory of the rebellion, and calling on all Nationalist Irishmen to support Mr. J. Redmond's constitutional policy, was received. The resolution was marked "read."

Aravon School.—G. F. M. Lyster, son of Canon H. C. Lyster, B.D., Rector of Enniscorthy, has gained a £70 mathematical scholarship at Rugby School. Although a year under the age limit, he took second place in the mathematical lists.

Ship-Repairing in Dublin.—The want of a second graving dock at Dublin port has again led to local ship-repairing and overhauling work being given to a cross-Channel port. A locally-owned steamer, which had only a definite period available for her annual overhauling, has found it impossible to wait here, and has consequently taken herself to the other side of the Irish Sea, where the work will be done.

Brisk Exports from Dublin.—From the port of Dublin at present an immense quantity of food stuffs produced in Ireland is being forwarded to Great Britain. Apart from live stock and beef, mutton, and pork, hams, bacon, and fish, there is now an export trade from the Liffey in fresh, green vegetables grown in North and South County Dublin. Scotland takes generous supplies by every steamer from the North Wall to the Clyde. The shipments of cakes and biscuits manufactured in Dublin continue steady and extensive in character.

Soldiers' Recreation Rooms.—The recreation rooms established in Lower Abbey street, under the auspices of the Methodist Committee for work among soldiers, are being largely utilised by the troops in Dublin. Spacious and well-appointed, the premises are equipped with every facility for amusement and recreation, and nothing is left undone to promote the comfort of our gallant soldiers. In addition to billiards, bagatelle, and other games, the rooms are provided with a piano, and from time to time informal concerts, which always prove enjoyable, are held. The reading room is provided with newspapers, periodicals, and magaines, and writing materials are available free of charge. Refreshments can be obtained at moderate rates.

South Dublin Hospital Flower Mission.—This mission will re-open to-day. The kind support of country friends is asked to enable the mission to have a plentiful supply of flowers for the patients in the hospitals and for the wounded soldiers. Hampers and baskets should be addressed to the Hon. Secretary, Dublin Hospital Flower Mission (South side), Baggotrath Church Hall, Upper Baggot street. The Dublin and South-Eastern Railway Company and the Tramway Company generously carry the flowers free of charge, and the Great Southern and Western Railway Company at half rates. The flowers should be sent so as to reach Kingsbridge before 10 o'clock and Harcourt street and Westland row before 11.30 on Tuesday mornings. Helpers are invited to go to Baggotrath Church Hall any Tuesday at 12 o'clock to assist in making up the bunches; 17,831 bunches were distributed last year.

PUBLIC AMUSEMENTS.

GAIETY THEATRE.

"THE MIKADO."

The playing of "The Mikado" by the Rathmines and Rathgar Musical Society at the Gaiety Theatre during this week is a thoroughly good entertainment, and the performance is as good as any by amateurs is ever likely to be—better, indeed, than the average amateur performance. What magic effect Sullivan's happy music has in banishing the nightmare atmosphere of these tragic times! Gilbert's words too, fit into their places just as aptly as Sullivan's notes build up expressive music, and the point of the jokes is not blunted by the passage of time. There is, indeed, very little to criticise in the presentation of "The Mikado" this week, for only those who make opera work their profession could do better. One feature deserves great commendation, and that is the clearness with which the whole story is set forth. There is no nervous rushing and no mumbling, while chorus and solo singing are both generally good. Mr. A. R. Lucas is at his best in the part of Nanki-Poo and his voice last evening was remarkably fresh in quality. Mr. J. Lynch, who sustained the character of the Mikado, is also in good form, and his voice gave keen pleasure. Miss K. Gahan, Miss F. Howley, and Miss E. Sheldon, who take the parts of Yum-Yum Pitti-Sing, and Peep-Bo, sing nicely and act with grace. Mr. W. Kelly and Mr. W. F. Knox are the funny men, Ko-Ko and Pooh-Bah, and right well they carry out their diverse parts. Mr. Kelly bubbles over with active humour, and may be forgiven bringing a native Irish flavour to the wit of the Eastern Empire, if it does seem out of place. Mr. Knox is a monument of passive humour. Mr. Kelly sparkles; Mr. Knox radiates—both with immense success. The other parts were sustained as follows:—Katisha, Miss E. Furlong; Pish-Tush, Mr. C. Jackson; Go-To, Mr. J. A. Kelly. There was a large audience last evening, and its members revealed cordial appreciation of the merits of the performance. Several numbers were repeated, the stage manager, Mr. J. C. O'Brien, being rather too indulgent in that respect. Mr. C. P. FitzGerald conducted admirably.

THEATRE ROYAL HIPPODROME.

A first-class programme was presented at the Theatre Royal Hippodrome last night. The audience were delighted with the performance of the Belgian Quartette, consisting of Miss Marcella Molray, prima donna, Antwerp; Mons. Paul Cambier, violinist, Brussels; Mons. Jean Marechal, baritone, Antwerp; and Mons. Alphonse Halene, solo pianist, Liege. The vocal and instrumental selections rendered by these artists was a musical treat of a high order, each item being enthusiastically applauded. The quartette attained their highest point of excellence in the number, "All ye that suffer," sung by Miss Molray and Mons. Marechal, with violin, pianoforte, and orchestral accompaniments. Le Dair, "the conjuring Canadian," performs a number of clever tricks. The Paceys are excellent dancers; they also sing. The Three Crooks put on a very amusing sketch, entitled "Cracksmen," in which Hal Jones scored well as a "funny man." The Charladies is a novel turn. The raising of the curtain discloses six women and a man "charring" on a theatre stage. They "down tools," and then set about giving a "turn" of their own, in which they sing, dance, play the pianoforte and the violin, and generally do themselves well while amusing the audience. Horace Wheatley, a comedian familiar to all music hall audiences, was cordially welcomed. He told us once more about his friends MacIntyre and Dougherty, and, though whiskers have sprouted and grown upon some of the old jokes, they still raise general laughter. Mr. Wheatley is a perennial whose popularity is still as great in Dublin as it was twenty years ago. W. F. Frame, the Scottish star comedian, is also on the programme this week, and, although owing to the length of the programme, the time allotted to him, like the others, was curtailed, he managed to sing, dance, and tell enough stories to set the house laughing again and again. The capital programme was rounded off with a number of pictures on the bioscope of scenery in the Killarney district. The demands upon Mr. John Moody and his orchestra were more than usually exacting at times, and their response was always satisfactory.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.

Mr. Stephen Crossley's Company presented last evening at the Queen's an absorbing drama, entitled "A Girl of the People," written by Mrs. Florence Crossley. It is the story of a girl who works in a Lancashire mill, and who, in spite of many misfortunes and much calumny, maintains her good name, and vindicates her character. Jess Aldridge becomes Lady Kingstown, and that excites the deadly envy of Helen Rossiter, who would become the wife of Arthur Kingstown, the mill-owner, in whose employment Jess had been. Jim Barfield not only prevents his master from entering into a bigamous marriage with Helen, but he saves Jess from the fury of her fellow-workers at the mill, who believed her to be what Helen Rossiter maliciously described her to them. It is a highly interesting play, in which there are several well-contrasted situations. Mr. Crossley plays the part of Jim Barfield with vigour, and Miss Florence Halton presented the part of Jess with her usual ability.

EMPIRE THEATRE.

A fine mystery is presented by P. T. Selbit. Whether his paintings are an illusion or really spiritual does not matter greatly to most spectators. That they appear gradually on canvas seemingly blank, produced by some unknown agency, is a fact, and a very interesting fact. Last evening Mr. Selbit, with an intelligent assistant, brought forth a copy of "La Gioconda," followed by one of a lovely horsewoman, by an American artist. Of whatever kind his work, he deserves warm praise for his dexterity. A second prominent turn is a brief comedy, entitled, "Hullo ! Conductor." It is not given to everybody to see vaudeville performers rehearsing of a Monday morning. But here all can have a peep at a fair company in such circumstances. Its members are Lloyd MacKenzie, an over-obliging stage manager; Bert Danson, "an unparalleled bar performer"; Beaty and Blanche, "the girls who do everything together," and do it amusingly; Sammy Johns, a self-possessed comedian; Fred. Glover, a voluble conductor; and Olive Dent, "the Yankee-Lancashire Star." Their burlesque rehearsal does not last long; it is over just before it ceases to be funny. The other items of the Empire programme are the Two Wilmers, in an acrobatic and musical act; George Rapley, a comedian; Joan Tate, who is welcome from Australia; the Brothers Curran, who truly knock-about; Ida Long, who dances as well as sings; and Penman and Miller, whose feats on horizontal bars are the result of uncommon strength and skill.

TIVOLI THEATRE.

The principal attraction in this week's programme at the Tivoli Theatre was presented to well-filled houses at the two performances last evening by Rolf E. Slater, assisted by five young ladies. Songs, dancing, and lightning painting were the features of the turn, which proved a distinct success. A popular reception was also extended to Jerome Murphy, the London-Irish baritone, who made his first appearance in Dublin. His singing of Irish songs immediately "caught on," and he was heartily applauded, especially for his fine rendering of "My Dark Rosaleen." The remaining items on a good programme were in the capable hands of Woodward and Page, in a cycle act; Bert Eden, who proved a clever comedian; Lloyd and Montrose, and Will and Dot Netta at the piano. The herculean feats of A. B. Cesrano constituted an entertaining turn, as was also that of Irene Dean, in illustrated songs; while the bioscope, as usual, was very interesting.

Bohemian Picture Theatre.—An excellent programme of drama and comedy was presented at the Bohemian Picture Theatre, Phibsborough, yesterday, the enjoyment of the presentation being much enhanced by some excellent instrumental music, under the direction of Mr. Percy B. Carver. The chief attraction was the 5-act drama "Beulah," adapted from the novel by Augusta Evans Wilson, a piece which held the attention of the audience from start to finish. The comedy "Under New Management" is one of the most mirth-provoking that has been screened for a considerable time, the amusement being evolved around the adventures of a young lady who disguises herself as a man in order to secure employment as a stenographer. "Her Winning Punch" is another comedy turn, showing how a local "terror" is subdued by his better-half. The Pathé Gazette and Cinema Stop Press include all the latest films from the various war fronts. The programme is continuous from 3 to 10.30 p.m., with presentations of "Beulah" at 3, 7, and 9 o'clock. The 'cello solos of Mr. Clyde Twelvetrees continue to be a great attraction, his selection for the opening half of the week being Massenet's "Melodie." From Thursday next a number of fresh films will be presented.

The Carlton Cinema.—The Carlton Cinema, Upper Sackville street, has established a reputation for its excellent "Metro" presentations, its selection of first-view high-class productions winning widespread popularity. For the opening half of the present week a 5-part Metro production, "The Bigger Man," is the leading attraction on the screen, and is well up to the high standard already achieved by the house. A great railroad story is unfolded in the course of the five reels, popular interest being sustained from start to finish. Two highly-amusing comedies are also shown—"Some Night" and "Just Look at Jake"—whilst the Topical Budget leaves nothing to be desired in the way of up-to-date films. On Thursday there will be a complete change of programme, with the great Metro production, "Man and His Soul," featuring Francis X. Mortimer and Miss Beverley Bayne, as the chief dramatic attraction. Mr. Goldwater, whose orchestra lays claim to be the finest of any picture house in the country, continues to play his popular solos each day at 4.30 and 8.45 p.m.

REVUE BY MADAME ROCK'S PUPILS.

The "Little Theatre" last week was crowded with visitors to see the revue given by Madame Rock's pupils. Three different programmes were presented during the week, and there was no lack of interest or talent. The Egyptian scene was remarkably good. Miss Nancy Rock and Miss Rea Mooney were two charming queens. Miss Claire Geary gave much amusement by her singing of "The Preacher and the Bear." Master Clifford O'Farrell's acting was marvellous for one so young. He caused roars of laughter as "Gilbert the Filbert" and in "Whoops, let's do it again." In the latter he was dressed as a D.M. Policeman, and was helped by his little partner, Miss Betty Spear, in further amusing the audience. Others who contributed largely to the success of the entertainment were the Misses Ho. Rock, Rita North, Dollie Curran, May Stapelton, Sylvia Rock, and the little dots, Neta Child, Eugenie Moriarty, and Master Charlie Duggan. Part of the proceeds of the revue will go to the St. Vincent de Paul Society for the benefit of the poor.

PROVINCIAL PARAGRAPHS.

Sir Thomas Esmonde and the Gorey Guardians.—At Saturday's meeting of the Gorey Guardians a letter was read from Sir Thomas H. G. Esmonde, M.P., resigning the chairmanship of the Board of Guardians and the District Council.

Listowel Council and Sir M. O'Connell.—At the annual meeting of the Listowel Rural Council a resolution was passed, viewing with contempt and indignation the remarks of Sir Morgan O'Connell in reference to the magistrates of Kerry at the Rebellion Commission.

Defence of the Realm Act.—On Sunday a meeting of the Munster Council, Gaelic Athletic League, was to be held in Limerick, but the Constabulary served notice that the meeting should not take place. The contemplated meeting was in the circumstances adjourned to a future date.

A Victim of the Rebellion.—The re-interment of the remains of Mr. M. C. O'Connor, of Ballyhahill, who was accidentally shot in the Phoenix Park on the 26th April, took place on Saturday evening in Kilfergus Churchyard, Glin, in the presence of a large assemblage of mourners. He was a member of the staff of St. Kieran's College, Kilkenny.

Wexford Corporation and Labour Exchange.—At the Wexford Corporation on Monday—the Mayor (Councillor Byrne) presiding—strong protests were made against the action of the local Labour Exchange in drafting hundreds of men weekly from the district to take up munition work in Great Britain. Alderman Sinnott, J.P., said that as a result of the continuous drain no men were available for work on the quays, and in consequence no shipowners would charter vessels for Wexford. A committee was appointed to investigate and report on the matter.

Killarney and the Rebellion.—At the meeting of the Killarney Urban Council the attitude of the townspeople towards the rebellion was discussed. Mr. Collins thought it would be well if it was stated there that there had been absolute peace in Killarney, so that tourists might not be deterred from visiting the locality. The Chairman said that it should now be well known that in Killarney and in the whole of Kerry, with the exception of one wild act in a neighbouring parish, everything had been absolutely quiet. There had been no sympathy there with the outbreak in Dublin, and he did not think it necessary to point out that tourists who would come to Killarney would receive a warm welcome.

The War Office have arranged for the collection of official kinematograph pictures of our forces in France and at Salonika to be exhibited at the Scala Theatre, London, beginning on Thursday next. Mr. Bonar Law will introduce the pictures to the public in a short address to the audience.
